

SERVICES FOR MRS. BRALY ELABORATE TRIBUTE

Head of Anti-Saloon League, Friend of Years, Conducts Funeral

REFLECTING the rich simplicity of a cultured, spiritual life, funeral services for Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley Braly were held Saturday afternoon at the Braly home at 505 North Brand boulevard. The home was filled with relatives and friends gathered to pay final tribute to a woman who held high place in every activity in which women have a part.

Covered with a soft blanket of Cecil Brunner rose buds, Delphinium, Mrs. Braly's favorite flowers, and maiden hair fern, the broad-based gray plush casket rested before a huge American flag and a bank of floral tributes in the south living room. The use of the flag was most fitting, standing for Mrs. Braly's true American loyalty and her devotion to the Daughters of the American Revolution. The floral pieces, which were most beautiful, came from organizations to which Mr. and Mrs. Braly belonged and from their countless friends in Glendale and other parts of California.

Among the larger pieces was the D. A. R. emblem of red, white and blue flowers from the General Richard Gridley chapter D. A. R. of Glendale, of which Mrs. Braly was organizing and life raising; a tall basket of spring blossoms from the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. Braly was past president and honorary life member; an Eastern Star emblem from Glen Eyrle chapter of which Mrs. Braly was a member; a large piece from the Glendale State bank; a piece from the board of directors of the Sunday school of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Santa Barbara; and others from organizations in Los Angeles.

Particularly beautiful were the floral blanket and a wonderfully fashioned floral cross and crown, both from Mr. Braly. The cross was made of pale pink rose buds, white carnations, pale lavender sweetpeas and fern and the crown beneath it was of yellow marnegueria. These two pieces were (Continued on page 7)

U. S. Vessels May Ignore Volstead Law, Is Ruling

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The right of the United States government to compel both American and foreign owned ships to be "bone dry" within American waters was upheld today by the United States supreme court in a decision which clarified many of the complexities of the national prohibition law.

At the same time, however, the highest court ruled that the government has "not the power to extend the Volstead act either to American or foreign ships when those ships are outside American territorial waters." The famous Daugherty decision extending the Volstead law to all American ships wherever they may be was thus partially upheld and partially thrown down.

The court held that American ships could be forced by the prohibition law to go dry in American waters, but the law did not force such ships to go dry in waters over which the United States had no jurisdiction. When foreign or domestic ships are outside American waters they cannot be controlled by the Volstead law, the court said.

A dissenting opinion was delivered by Justice Sutherland.

MRS. EASTON DIES RESULT OF CRASH

Glendale Woman Dies From Injuries Received in Auto Accident

As the result of an automobile accident that occurred last Friday two miles north of Tulare, Mrs. Sarah Easton of 1129 Western avenue is dead, and members of the W. H. Easton family were seriously injured and were brought to Glendale today.

Full details of the accident have not been available but it is known that Mrs. Easton, with her son W. H. Easton and three other persons were riding in the automobile when the accident happened. All occupants of the car were injured.

Mrs. Easton was fatally injured and died later in Tulare. Her body has been brought to Glendale and is at the L. G. Seaverny Undertaking company, where funeral arrangements are being made.

Mrs. Easton was born May 24, 1854 in Illinois and had lived in Glendale for fifteen years.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Henry Hollenbeck, of 1129 Western avenue, with whom she made her home; and by two sons, W. H. Easton, and Harry H. Easton of 1119 Stanley avenue, Glendale.

2000 Klansmen Take Oath at Initiation

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—More than 2000 citizens of Los Angeles and vicinity are today cogitating upon the solemnity of the oath administered to them on Saturday night in open initiation, when they became members of the Klan No. 1, invisible empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, at Ocean Park Heights, before thousands of spectators. The ceremony was conducted beneath the light of a flaming electric lighted cross over 100 feet high, around which were gathered more than 3000 fully robed Klansmen.

The spectators, though, were forced to keep out of hearing of the actual administration of the oath by the Ku Klux.

An American flag, illuminated with flood lights, played an important part in the ceremonies, which lasted more than two hours.

Emerson Hough, Noted Novelist, Dies In Chicago

CHICAGO, April 30.—Emerson Hough, novelist and author, for thirty years, of popular works, died in a hospital here today. An operation from the building shortly before noon today and watched the structure reduced to ashes. The origin of the fire, which started on the roof, has not been determined.

Hough's most recent work that greatly heightened his popularity was "The Covered Wagon," adapted only lately to motion pictures.

Hough's widow is his only survivor. He was born in Newton, Iowa, and was 66 years old. He was graduated in 1880 from the State University of Iowa.

Hough was noted for his fondness for the outdoors. Most of his writings were of that type. In 1895 he toured Yellowstone National park and it was through his efforts that legislation was enacted for the protection of the rapidly perishing buffalo herds of the west.

TELLS ABOUT VISITING IN NATIONAL CAPITAL

Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, In Letter To The News, Describes Her Trip

A SPECIAL interest for Glendale in the recent thirty-second annual congress of Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington, D. C., was that Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, secretary of the General Richard Gridley chapter of Glendale was in attendance as Glendale's delegate. Mrs. Ocker writes:

"The congress was of course most interesting. There were many elaborate social functions during the week in the way of teas, receptions, luncheons and banquets. The most brilliant affair was the banquet at the New Willard hotel for the Daughters.

Harding and Wife

"One event not on the printed program was the appearance of President and Mrs. Harding. The first day of the congress the President made a splendid address.

Another interest to Glendale was that incorporated in the report given by Mrs. John Trigg Moss, national chairman of conservation and thrift, was the report from California compiled by Miss Ida Myers, second vice regent of the Glendale chapter and California chairman of conservation and thrift. Upon receiving Miss Myers' report Mrs. Moss said: "Miss Myers is a wonderful state chairman and such reports as here are a joy forever. I wish I could just pass it around and let others see what can be done. I congratulate California upon having such a splendid worker as one of her state chairmen. The work would be a great pleasure to the national chairman if all states cooperate to the extent that California has in this department."

Points of Interest

During her stay in Washington Mrs. Ocker is the guest of her friend Miss Clara Blake of Carlisle Court. Mrs. Ocker is enjoying talks about the city and her many friends will be interested in reading the following account she has written for The Glendale Evening News of her first two weeks in the capital. She writes:

Arrest to Result in Clara Phillips Escape

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—The arrest of at least one of the principal conspirators who is believed to have assisted Mrs. Clara Phillips, "hammer murderer" of Alberta Meadows, in her sensational escape from the county jail here last December, is near, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

Details of the arrest and the evidence upon which it may be made cannot be revealed at this time.

As the prospect of an arrest in a few days loomed, Under Sheriff Gene Biscailuz was today completing plans for his trip to Tegucigalpa, Honduras, and return to Los Angeles the woman held under provisional arrest there as being Mrs. Phillips.

Biscailuz conferred today with Sheriff William L. Traeger and Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes on the question of officers who will make the trip with him. Biscailuz will take his wife with him as a matron and is endeavoring to arrange to take two additional officers.

Daugherty Back at Post in Washington

WASHINGTON, April 30.—After convalescing for two months in Florida, Attorney General H. M. Daugherty, who has been "very sick" since last winter, returned to Washington today to again assume his dual role as head of the department of justice and political adviser-in-chief to President Harding.

Eleven Lives Lost in Wreck of Schooner

LONDON, April 30.—Word was received here today that the schooner Myrtunier had foundered near Guam with the loss of Captain Nelson, his wife and nine members of the crew. Three other members of the crew were picked up after drifting for 23 days in an open boat.

WOMAN KILLED

PADUCAH, Ky., April 30.—Mrs. Rosetta Daugherty Warren, 34, was killed instantly today when a dynamite explosion wrecked her home here. Police are seeking a woman believed to be mentally deranged whom Mrs. Warren's husband says was jealous of his marriage and had once attempted to burn his barn. Three children, who were with their mother in the Warren home at the time of the explosion, escaped injury.

FRANCE WARNS

DUSSELDORF, April 30.—French military headquarters today prohibited May Day demonstrations throughout the Ruhr and Rhineland. German communists are preparing to disregard this warning at some places.

Government Starts Legal Action To Dissolve Trust Of Varied Lumber Interests

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The government today began legal action to dissolve the alleged lumber trust. A suit in equity against the Western Pine Manufacturers' Association was filed on behalf of the government in the United States district court at St. Paul. Approximately sixty corporations and eighty-six individuals, officers in various lumber concerns, were named as defendants.

The government asked the court to issue an immediate injunction against the corporations and individuals named, preventing them from continuing the practices, which, the government charges, constitute "a combination and conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade and commerce in lumber."

The suit was instituted after many months of investigation and consideration by government officials, it was said at the department of justice. The many complaints from builders and business interests in the country over the high prices of building materials were a big factor in getting the federal authorities into action.

DRIVERS REPORT SUNDAY CRASHES

Crowded Condition of Roads Is Cause of Numerous Auto Collisions

Ideal weather over the weekend stimulated a large amount of automobile driving and a number of collisions were reported to the local police department.

Mrs. Effie E. Williams, Mrs. E. L. Williams and Miss L. Virginia, all of Altadena, were badly shaken up about 6 o'clock Saturday night in a collision at the intersection of Colorado street and Verdugo road. Their car was being driven east by R. S. Williams of Altadena. It was struck on the right side by a machine being driven north by Dr. George E. White of Selma, who stated: "I didn't see the other party on account of the sun in my eyes."

A three-sided collision occurred about 11 o'clock yesterday morning on San Fernando road just north of Dorset street. Milton Pay Foster, 643 East Forty-Seventh street, Los Angeles, was northbound and was attempting to pass another car when his machine was struck upon the left side by a southbound automobile driven by Salome Gonzales of Burbank. Mr. Foster's car had both left fenders and the left running board badly damaged.

Meanwhile, the machine of Mr. Gozales had collided with the automobile of Kyoichiro Hamane of 627 Madison avenue, Los Angeles. It was badly damaged.

While crossing the bridge over the Los Angeles river yesterday morning, the automobile of Edwin T. Mason of 805 East Lomita avenue was struck in the rear by the machine of Harold J. Record of Los Angeles. The front bumper of Mr. Record's car passed under the rear end of Mr. Mason's machine.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Best of 765 West Lexington drive were crossing Brand boulevard about 7:30 last night on their way to the Central Christian Church. Their machine collided with an automobile being driven north on Brand boulevard by Mrs. Effie N. Rosene of Hollywood.

Mrs. Madeilyn Mae Montgomery of 919 1/2 East Acacia avenue was driving west on Acacia avenue when she reached Brand boulevard and turned south and her car collided with a machine driven by Harry Venable of 1637 West Fifty-Eighth street, Los Angeles. There was no damage.

$20 Damage Done

Frank E. Zyrd of 135 West Mariposa street, Eagle Rock, who was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Aetna Wilson, had the right front wheel of his machine broken about 3:40 Saturday afternoon while it was being passed by an automobile driven by Mortimer Pearson of 244 Passaic avenue, Pasadena. The collision occurred on North Verdugo road. Property damage to Mr. Zyrd's machine was estimated at $20.

Jack D. Marsh of 1249 South Central avenue was parking on Brand boulevard between Broadway and Harvard street about 9 o'clock last night when its rear end was struck by a machine piloted by Lowell Carson of Redondo. It will cost about $10 to repair the damage.

While passing the Annandale Country Club about 4:45 yesterday afternoon Harry A. Eckert of 211 West Eulalia avenue stopped his machine in time to prevent serious damage to an automobile which pulled out from the side of the road directly in front of his automobile. His machine pulled off the front bumper of the other car.

NOT TAXABLE

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The supreme court of the United States today decided that under the revenue act of 1916 incomes arising from the exchange of stock in a corporation for stock in a new corporation, incident to reorganization or reorganization, is not taxable gain.

GETS APPOINTMENT

SACRAMENTO, April 30.—S. J. Janas, former newspaperman, was today appointed chief deputy bank examiner by State Bank Superintendent J. F. Johnson.

SWIMMERS ENJOY POOL'S OPENING

Program of Events Held at Natatorium Signals End of Play Week

"Swimmin' Hole" days are here, following the opening Saturday afternoon of the municipal swimming pool in Patterson Avenue park.

The opening was the final event of "Play Week" and was celebrated by a goodly majority of Glendale youngsters diving off the edge in bright new summer bathing suits.

Supervising the affair were L. R. James, superintendent of the pool; R. E. Tucker, playground superintendent and Community Service executive, and H. L. Butterfield, physical training instructor of the Glendale Union High School.

A short address was given by L. T. Rowley, chairman of the park board, who was introduced by Mr. Tucker.

Proceeding the opening of the pool, a flag was raised on the new flag pole by Boy Scouts, while Robert Searle played the bugle call "To the Colors."

Demonstrations of swimming feats and rescuing the drowning were given by Fred H. Killick, and swimming stunts were engaged in by 175 young people.

Chester Concessions Are Signed by Turks

LONDON, April 30.—The convention granting the concessions to the Ottoman-American Development company (Chester group) by Turkey, was signed at Ankara today, said a despatch from Constantinople. These include rights for railway construction, exploitation of Mosul oil fields, the rebuilding of Ankara and sale of agricultural machinery.

German Authorities Fear May-Day Riots

BERLIN, April 30.—Violent May day disorders are feared in Germany tomorrow. In the Ruhr German workers are planning to make an anti-French demonstration. In Bavaria both the Fascist and communists are planning parades in defiance of a government warning and a clash is feared.

READY FOR 'WAR'

MUNICH, April 30.—This city is an armed camp today in preparation for May Day battles. Despite the Bavarian government's warning against parades and meetings, both the Fascist and communists are preparing for demonstrations. Bloodshed is feared.

COURT TO RECESS

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The United States supreme court will suspend for the present term the call of the docket on May 4, and no motions except for admission to the bar will be received by the court after June 4. The date of formal recess for the present term was not announced by the court.

DEDICATION OF LIGHTS COMPLETE SUCCESS

Southern Glendale Is Host To People From All Sections of City

A CELEBRATION, which will long be remembered in the annals of Glendale, Saturday night marked the illumination of the ornamental lights on San Fernando boulevard. It was declared a success in every detail and reflects great credit on the committee in charge and the southern residents generally.

While the full moon blinked upon the scene from the east and the hills of Griffith park cast their shadows from the west, about 8:30 p. m., grandstand lights were suddenly turned off and the district was left in a mantle of darkness. A few seconds later a barrage of roman candles skyrocketed into the air from either side of the street. Meanwhile, many eyes were concentrated upon the post upon which was affixed the electric switch.

After a pause, Mayor Spencer Robinson pushed it into place. Slowly the electricity warmed the filament of one globe of each standard. There was a short delay and then the electricity warmed the other light on each standard. Both lights blinked for a moment and then united in full brilliance.

From All Sections

Spectators, who attended the ceremonies, came from all parts of the city. Representatives were there from Grand View, East Glendale and Sparr Heights. Before the program commenced many "kids" played upon the vacant lot upon the western side of San Fernando road—unconscious of the fact that in a few years they will return to the scene, and observe it solidly built up.

Charles J. Griffin of 1035 South San Fernando road acted as master of ceremonies. He introduced William Griffin of 806 South San Fernando road, and L. H. Wilson of 1034 South San Fernando roads, first and second presidents of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvements association.

As a representative of the public service department, Peter Dietrich officially received the custody of the ornamental lights in behalf of the city of Glendale. He (Continued on page 3)

FATHER AND SON BANQUET TUESDAY

Complete Program for Big Annual Event; Expect Large Attendance

This year's Father and Son banquet, to be held tomorrow night, May 1, at the Central Christian church, commencing at 6:30 o'clock, looks as though it would surpass in attendance and interest of program any that have been held in previous years. Reports Secretary R. C. Kelley of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The program will be as follows:

Meeting called to order by David Black, chairman of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A.; pronouncing of invocation by Arlin McCormick, Hi-Y member; then will come the banquet.

The program that will follow will be led off by singing, in charge of Sam Sutherland, Occidental's popular yell leader who graduated last year; Merle Waterman, Long Beach boys' secretary, will render a "Planolog"; David Black will then introduce Theodore Haig, president of the Glendale Hi-Y, who will respond briefly and then take charge of the meeting.

Balance of Program

The balance of the program will comprise the following talks: "Our Dads," by Jack Swearingin of the Notchers' club, grammar school section of the Y; "Summer Camp," by LeRoy Tepe, Hi-Y member; "Bringing Up Dad," by Paul Cunningham, Hi-Y member; "Team Work Between Father and Son," by H. L. Butterfield, Glendale Union high school coach; sections on the Hawaiian steel guitar, by Chong Kong, of the Fullerton high school.

And then will come the address of the evening, by Dr. George P. Taubman, of Long Beach, who conducts the great Bible class there every Sunday morning, said to be the biggest Bible class in the world.

The women of the banquet committee, under the direction of their chairman, Mrs. O. L. Killick, are working hard to make this affair an outstanding gastronomic, as well as oratorical success.

Investigate Death of Train Crash Victims

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—A coroner's inquest was scheduled today to hold today over the bodies of four adults and a newborn babe who lost their lives yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding collided with an interurban train at the New avenue crossing near Alhambra.

The victims of the accident were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Duarte and Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Morales. The baby was born prematurely to one of the women as the result of the impact and lived but a few moments.

Investigating officers gave it as their opinion that the occupants of the ill-fated car were speeding to a hospital in anticipation of the child's impending birth and because of the excitement failed to notice the approaching electric trolley when nearing the crossing.

The train struck the automobile with terrific force, throwing it against a telephone pole and hurling the occupants 100 feet up the tracks.

Three Planes Finish Cross Country Flight

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Three of the big Martin bombing planes which left San Diego, Cal., last Thursday for an experimental flight across the continent, landed at Bolling field, near here, today.

The planes were piloted by marine aviators and were greeted by Secretary of the Navy Denby; Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, and other naval officials, including representatives of the Japanese embassy.

Orders of De Valera Are Ignored by Irish

DUBLIN, April 30.—Eamonn de Valera's proclamation ordering republican irregulars to suspend hostilities at noon was ignored, according to reports received here.

Women Rally For Battle On High Price Of Sugar

NEW YORK, April 30.—Sugar prices were under fire from two directions today. Officially the government, through the attorney general, was to move this afternoon for an injunction against the New York sugar exchange, which it charged with artificially fixing prices through a conspiracy of its members.

Unofficially the women of the metropolis, marshalling four minute speakers and workers for a house-to-house canvass of the five boroughs, began their campaign to limit the use of sugar and thus force down the price.

"By night we expect to have from 300 to 400 speakers and at least 5000 workers enlisted for an intensive canvass of the housewives of the city," said Mrs. Louis R. Weizsaecker, deputy commissioner of markets, who is directing the campaign of 250 women's clubs against high priced sugar.

Four federal judges will hear the government's motion for injunction against the sugar exchange. William Mason Smith, attorney for the exchange, stated today he would ask for a continuance on the ground that John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, who was retained by the exchange as chief counsel in the suit, was in Washington arguing a case before the supreme court.

Living Costs Show 68.8 Pct. Advance

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The cost of living has increased 68.8 per cent in the United States in the past ten years, Secretary of Labor Davis announced today, on the basis of official reports.

The increases included: Food, 42 per cent; clothing, 74.4; housing, 62.4; fuel and lighting, 86.2; furniture, 117.4; miscellaneous commodities, 100.3.

PROBE DEATH RECORDS

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 30.—Persistent reports that there is to be a wholesale exhumation of the bodies of House of David followers who have died were strengthened today when Homer S. Quay, assistant attorney-general, caused an investigation to be made at the request of approximately forty reported deaths. Of the forty who died thirty came to their death through causes "unknown."

LODGE HOLDS BIRTHDAY PROGRAM IN PARK

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Hold Great Celebration Saturday Afternoon

A HUGE program, estimated at upwards of 6000 people, gathered Saturday afternoon in Glendale Verdugo park, off Verdugo road, in celebration of the 104th anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

It was the annual Los Angeles county assemblage, consisting of delegations from practically every one of the seventy lodges in the county, and was made up of Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and friends from all over southern California.

A fine program of prominent speakers had been provided, as well as a field program under the direction of R. Ernest Tucker, executive secretary of Community Service. Following a colossal basket lunch picnic held on the green grass and under the sheltering branches of the live oaks with which the beautiful park abounds, coffee for which was donated by Ralph's Grocery company, hundreds of the vast throng gathered in and around the large pavilion and there enjoyed the program, presided over by Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, president of the Glendale Rebekahs, which was led off by the singing of "America," a prayer by Rev. C. R. Norton and an address of welcome by Mayor Spencer Robinson.

Mayor in Songs

Francis J. W. Henry then led in the singing of "Smiles" and "Dixie," after which Mayor Robinson, Glendale's "singing mayor," refuted all his apologies by proving to be in very fine voice indeed, rendering "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "My Old Kentucky Home" in a rich tenor voice that brought forth sustained applause.

E. R. Longly, deputy grand master, who followed on the program, responded to the mayor's welcoming address with a few words of thanks, after which he turned the course of his remarks into the channel of Odd Fellowship, stating that the principles underlying this great organization had been tested and proved true, and that this was the reason (Continued on page 12)

Girl Suspect Arrest Near in Murder Case

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—Acting on an asserted underworld confession of a young and pretty girl that she shot and killed the Remington, clubman and alleged "society bootlegger" here several weeks ago, officers today closed in on the self-admitted slayer, after being "ditched" by her in a thrilling chase through a downtown department store.

Every precaution was taken by the officers, who withheld the girl's name from being outwitted again and expressed ignorance of the motive for the slaying by the girl. However, Deputy Sheriff William Bright declared that solution of the mysterious murder was near.

Several times within the last week the girl suspect is said to have been in the grasp of the officers, only to slip through their net into temporary hiding.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

TOKIO, April 30.—Anti-red organizations are planning a city-wide demonstration Thursday against the proposed trade negotiations between Japan and soviet Russia. Viscount Goto who resigned as mayor of Tokio to conduct the negotiations is being urged to renounce his title and is charged with co-operating for the induction of radicalism in Japan and with proposing to sell sugar at huge profits to Russia.

Plan Exchange With Oregon On Auto Licenses

SACRAMENTO, April 30.—Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the state motor vehicle department, announced today that he has entered into a reciprocal agreement with Sam A. Kozzer, secretary of state of Oregon, whereby California motorists will be relieved of payment of the Oregon registration tax when visiting the northern state, and Oregon autoists motoring in California will be exempt from the California tax. Stage lines operating interstate or persons driving cars for hire in competition with drivers of the adjoining state will be required to register in both states.

Daily HEALTH-AGAIN TALKS

By Dr. Otey

"Do you perform surgical operations?"

The Osteopath receives a training in surgery, but he considers it a greater gift to cure a diseased organ than to remove that organ from the body.

However, there are times when surgical operations must be done, but it will be well for you before submitting to an operation to consult the Osteopath. There may be a cure without the knife. Do not cut out an innocent tonsil, appendix or other organ because some lesion is interfering with its circulation or nerve force, resulting in swelling, pain, etc.

If you were commanding an army "Somewhere in France" and the enemy gave the alarm, would you give that sentry chloroform? Would you throw him in the guard house? No! You would marshal your forces to resist the attack! Then, why chloroform a nerve or "scrap" an organ when the pain and distress indicate that your body needs attention and that you should call out the Osteopathic reserves to assist you in repelling the attack and fortifying against future attacks of disease and disease germs?

It is not the purpose of this article to explain how this is done. It is scarcely possible to teach you in this brief space what it takes a regularly equipped College of Osteopathy four years to teach, but that it can be done is being demonstrated by the wonderful cures that are daily produced by Osteopathy.

President Prevents Boy's Deportation

Sammy Goldman

Governor Al Smith and United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, have joined in the fight to prevent the deportation of 15-year-old Sammy Goldman, of Syracuse, New York. The boy came to the United States with his mother and sister. He was classed as a mental defective, but permitted to enter the country on a year's probation. He soon became equal in proficiency with other students. Despite this, however, an order was issued that he be deported to Rumania. President Harding has temporarily halted the deportation, and it is likely the boy will be permitted to remain.

Amazing Memory Is Easy, Girl Claims

NEWPORT, N. H., April 30.—

"Remembering people is easy when you give a little thought to the matter," so declares Miss Anna Kennedy, head waitress in the Newport House here, who has a memory that is the envy of many political and business men of the State when it comes to remembering names and faces. During the last six years it has been estimated that Miss Kennedy has met and called correctly approximately 20,000.

One should always repeat the name two or three times if possible, then set it in mind some characteristic about the person, and dressed. For example, she says, Mr. Smith may have gray hair which he combs smoothly, a la Valentino, while Mr. Jones may have a bit of impediment in his speech. And so it goes, for there are no two people in the world alike.

Miss Kennedy was educated to teach school but finds hotel work much better to her liking. She not only recalls the names of guests but also remembers any likes or dislikes in most instances they have regarding seats in the dining room.

American Milk Cans Church Decorations

BOSTON, April 30.—"Discarded American condensed milk cans, when artistically treated, make beautiful decorations for the interior of churches in Russia among the small villages," declared Rev. Arthur Simmons in an address before Congregational ministers in Pilgrim Hall. Rev. Simmons recently returned to this country after a five-year stay in Russia.

The speaker also said that the Russians are very fond of America. He said he saw little children in Siberia playing with bear cubs and getting along well with them.

DEATHS-FUNERALS

MRS. ELLEN L. EARLY
The death of Mrs. Ellen L. Early, occurred Saturday afternoon, April 28, 1923, at her home at 225 North Isabel street.

Mrs. Early, who was a native of New York, was 79 years of age at the time of her death. She had lived in Glendale for one year. Surviving her is one son, Arthur N. Early.

Funeral services are to be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, where interment will take place. Dr. H. I. Rasmus will officiate. The L. G. Severn Company is in charge.

ELIA E. KIMBALL
Mrs. Elia E. Kimball died yesterday, Sunday, April 29, 1923, at her home at 1117 North Central avenue, after an illness of several months' duration.

She had been a resident of Glendale for nineteen years, during which time she had been a devoted member of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Kimball is survived by her husband George F. Kimball and by two daughters, Mrs. E. M. Walton of Glendale, and Mrs. T. E. Stanton of Sacramento.

Funeral services are to be held Tuesday morning, May 1, at 10 o'clock in the Jewel City Union, taking chapel with Rev. J. C. Livingston, pastor of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church, officiating. Burial will take place in Grandview Memorial park.

SOCIAL EVENT

Wed In Whittier
The many local friends of Robert W. Cowlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Cowlin of 346 West Hawthorne street, will be interested to learn of his marriage on Saturday, April 28, 1923, to Miss Frances Thayer Whittier. The ceremony, which was attended by the immediate relations, took place at the home of the bride's mother in Whittier.

Following the wedding the bride and bridegroom left immediately on their honeymoon, the destination and length of time to be taken not being disposed. The trip is being made via automobile.

The romance which culminated in Saturday's marriage was begun several years ago, at Berkeley, where both Mr. Cowlin and his wife were students at the University of California. Their engagement was announced several months ago, the wedding date having been postponed until Mr. Cowlin had completed a contract with the Lumber company at Port Brazeo, California.

Upon returning from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Cowlin will make their home in Long Beach, in order that they may be near San Pedro, where Mr. Cowlin has accepted a position with the Los Angeles Lumber Products company.

Welcoming May
The merry month of May is to receive an enthusiastic reception, that is, as far as Tuesday Afternoon club members are concerned, for on Saturday night of this week, May 5, the non-section members of the club are to stage the big "Carnival of Months."

Under the leadership of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, elaborate plans are being made for the affair, which is predicted to far surpass the recent society circus, auction and card party.

The carnival of months is to be a booth for each month in the year and the decorations and costumes of attendants will be in keeping with the spirit of each month. Festivities are to begin early and continue through the afternoon and evening.

In the evening a special musical program will be given.

Tells Betrothal

Glendale friends of Miss Elizabeth Stines and Dr. Charles Neville Flitton will be interested to know that their engagement was announced last Saturday evening at a dinner dance given at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena.

Miss Stines is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Close, of Cincinnati, Ohio. She is a graduate of the Ohio University and of the California School of Art, Design, Crafts, Berkeley, and a member of the Sigma, Sigma, Sigma society.

Dr. Flitton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Flitton of Victoria, B. C. He is a graduate of the Dental College of the University of Southern California and a member of the Delta Sigma Delta fraternity.

Cafeteria Supper

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lovey of 811 South Glendale avenue entertained a group of friends Saturday night at a cafeteria supper.

Their guests, all of whom were from out of town, were: Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bennett, Mrs. S. Cox, "Apparel and Food," by Mrs. J. E. Sargent; "Schools and Education" and "Books and Libraries," by Mrs. H. W. Sawyer; "Amusements," by Mrs. V. Rapp; "Business and Trade," by Mrs. V. Rapp; "General Outline of the Romans," by Miss O. Wing.

The next chapter meeting will be held Thursday morning, May 25, at 10 o'clock, at the public library, with Mrs. Charles Marshall, leader of the Lotus group, in charge of the program, Mrs. Bode announces.

Couple Are Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Carr of 1120 San Rafael avenue entertained a number of friends at their home last Sunday with a wedding anniversary party.

The rooms were decorated with a profusion of wild flowers, and American Beauties. The dining room was artistically decorated with marigolds and bachelor buttons, and the table decorations and appointments were carried out in the same scheme.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Daudistel, formerly of Chicago and now of San Dimas, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Poole and daughters, June and Aileen of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Dorlon and daughter, Jacqueline of Eagle Rock and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Carr.

Opens New Home

Mrs. Dan Bruce, who is now located in her new home at 336 West Maple street, was hostess one afternoon recently at an informal tea and at home.

She received Mesdames Fline, Charles Well, Sr., C. Brain, C. I. Peirce, Louise Sporneder, W. Paul, George Dusset, Fensper-maker and Charles Wells, Jr.

Entertaining Casts

Those who took part in the plays presented Friday and Saturday night in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse auditorium by the club's Drama Section, were entertained following the Friday night performance at supper in the tea room. Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, was hostess at the supper.

Calls Class Meet
Mrs. Lydia Rehberg, president of the J. O. C. class, the First Methodist church, announces a meeting for Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the church. A business session will be held first and will be followed by a social hour and unique program.

Festival Tuesday

Preparations for the bazaar to be held by the Atwater Parent-Teachers association in connection with the May festival of the Atwater school on Tuesday are nearly complete. Mrs. E. V. Bacon, general chairman, announces that the booths are in place and will be artistically decorated and on Tuesday the various committees will have their wares attractively displayed. There will be aprons, fancy work, and all sorts of good things to eat and drink. Dinner and lunches will be served.

A floral parade through the principal streets of the Atwater district is staged for 10:30 with prizes for the best floats. An interesting program has been prepared by the principal Miss Rosalind Gates and her efficient corps of teachers.

Give May Dinner

A May dinner was the delightful entertainment of the Navajo Needlework club members and their husbands Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Overton of 439 West Oak street.

Mrs. Overton arranged a most artistic table decoration, the centerpiece being a tiny May pole with pastel-shaded streamers leading to the places, where they were attached to small May baskets.

After the dinner hour games of Five-Hundred were enjoyed, L. O. Carlisle and Mrs. E. O. Carlisle winning the prizes.

The company included Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Koontz, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Waite, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Root, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Carlisle.

Week-End Trip

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Brandt of 214 1/2 Hawthorne street, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beach and daughter, Lucile, of 327 Riverside drive, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Davis of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Clark of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Hegel of Pasadena, and Miss Gladys Sharpe were members of a party that enjoyed a most delightful motor trip to Red Rock canyon over the week-end. The party left Glendale early Saturday, equipped for camping, and arrived at Red Rock, a distance of 135 miles, about 3 p. m., where they camped over night. The return trip was made by way of Mint canyon, where a stop was made for lunch. The Glendale members of the party arrived at home at 6:30.

Dinner in Park

Mrs. Ella Wells of 350 West Elk avenue entertained Saturday evening at Griffith Park with a surprise party in honor of her son, H. D. Wells' birthday.

A delightful Spanish dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock in the evening which was followed by games and a general good time.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sadler, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stodds, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Haisch, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Williams, Robert Crosby, Loren Taylor, Dan Colbert, Miss Lillian Criswell, Miss Hazel Jacquiss, Miss Edith Wells, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wells and the hostess, Mrs. Ella Wells.

Birthday Party

Miss Kathleen Morrison of 1219 East Broadway celebrated her eleventh birthday Saturday afternoon by entertaining eleven of her little friends.

Baby roses and pansies decorated the Morrison home for the party.

Games and a birthday luncheon were enjoyed by Kathleen and the following guests, Arvita Markley, Milmatta Steel, Jessie Stein, Orissa Edmonds, Blanche Kaiser, Margaret Damp, Elizabeth Billington, Catherine and Louise Stewart, Leona Ware and Esther Schierholz.

With Mrs. Ayars

Tuesday Afternoon club members of the Literary Section are to meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Frank Ayars at her home at 315 North Orange street.

They will enjoy hearing Mrs. J. Herbert Smith tell of her European trip last summer and a group of spring songs by Mrs. Straith-Miller.

Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, curator of the B. O. Holbrook section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, announces a section meeting for tomorrow, Tuesday morning, at 10:30 o'clock in the tea room at the clubhouse.

Needlework Club

Mrs. S. A. Koontz of 471 West Vine street was hostess one afternoon recently to members of the Navajo Needlework club.

Her guests were Mesdames L. O. Carlisle, Mark Carlisle, E. O. Carlisle, M. C. Fuller, J. C. Waite, J. D. Root and Frank Overton.

Meet On Tuesday

The members of the Philadelph class of the First Methodist church of which Mrs. Helen K. Scripps is class teacher, will hold their regular business meeting and coffee tea at the home of Mrs. Marie Oliver, 1314 North Central avenue, on Tuesday, May 1, at 6:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Class Entertains

The members of the Mizpah class of the First Baptist church entertained their husbands on Friday night in the social hall of the church. The tables were beautifully decorated with bouquets of spring flowers and places were marked for thirty guests.

Following the dinner, the regular business meeting and election of officers took place. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Thomas Mochan, president; Mrs. Flesman, vice president; Mrs. George H. Rowe, secretary and treasurer.

Apple Tree 118 Years Old Is Still Bearing

CARPENTER, Ohio, April 30.—The oldest apple tree in Meigs county and in this part of Ohio is owned by W. E. Harman, a local resident. The tree is 118 years old. It has never failed to bear a good crop of summer fruit and it will not fail this year, because the recent cold snap did not harm it, according to Harman.

So far not a brick has been laid toward the restoration of Smyrna. The great seaport resembles San Francisco after its earthquake and fire.

HOLD DEDICATION OF NEW LIGHTS

Southern Glendale Acts as Host to Crowd From All Parts of Glendale

was thanked for having rushed his installation as quickly as possible. He replied in a short speech in which he stated that all honor for the procuring of the lights belonged to the property owners.

Mayor Congratulates
"I congratulate you!" exclaimed
Mayor Spencer Robinson, in one of his characteristic speeches.
And I am mighty proud to be here tonight and prove that I live and have friends in this part of the city.

"I believe that this is one of the most important parts of Glendale.
I am not going to speak about operation, but the whole San Fernando road is one great big body
of boosters for this end of town.
On all work together down here."
City Manager W. H. Reeves made a short speech in which he congratulated the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement associa-

"You have the right to have a park in the southern part of Glendale," he exclaimed. "You have already started some work along that line, and I am here to say that we wish you every success
because heaven knows that we need parks."

C. of C. Greetings
Greeting from the Glendale
Chamber of Commerce
were extended by W. L. Twining, chairman of the publicity committee. He urged everyone to get behind this organization, and called attention to the fact that new arrangements have been made hereby sixty per cent of all revenue is to be expended to boost Glendale.

"This little community, that you started down here a year and half ago, has grown faster than by other portion of the city," he marked. "And it is due to the battle and hustle of the San Fernando Boulevard Improvement association."

Through the courtesy of H. L.
Savitt, director general of the Industrial Exposition, spectators are entertained by Mr. and Mrs.
Leo, who have turned the orchestra circuit in variety activity of its features was a music which will long be remembered. During its progress a Los Angeles orchestra played "Turkey
in the Straw." Later in the evening, this orchestra played for dancing in the San Fernando market at 808 South San Fernando road, and "The Son of the Desert" was sung by Harry Horn, baritone, who will take part also in the Industrial Exposition.

The illumination lasted far into the night and free refreshments were served consisting of fresh buntings, coffee and S. W. beverages. All present left in admiring the success of the celebration.

Elks Will Initiate New Officers Tonight

A fine gathering of Elks is prepared for tonight's regular meeting of the Glendale lodge. The big feature is to be the first initiation ceremony conducted by the staff of officers. There will be thirteen candidates initiated and the lodge members are looking forward to a lively meeting.
Following the initiation there will be an entertainment program. The inaugural ball held Saturday night was a splendid success and was for Elks and their ladies,
and honored the newly-installed officers. A fine dance program was enjoyed and late in the evening a light lunch was served.

Ladies Night Feature Of Shrine Club Meet

Business affairs, entertainment and "Ladies Night" are to be the features of the Shrine club meeting held Wednesday night,

business meeting is to be at 7:30 o'clock and will be followed by announcement of the new club rooms. Ripley Jackson, president, will speak.

At 8 o'clock an entertainment program will be given and later
dancing will be enjoyed.

Desert Animals Will Be Shown in Films

"Dwellers of the Desert" is the title of a film to be shown commencing at 10:50 a. m. Wednesday in a special assembly at Glendale Union high school. It will be accompanied by a lecture by the El Codiage member of the staff of the Southwestern Museum. It will show gila monsters, chuckwills, skunks, scorp-ions, rattlesnakes, antelopepunks, tortoises, kangaroos
and other beasts in action in their native haunts on the Colorado desert.

BRICK BUILDING FOR AUTO AGENT

Modern Structure to House Automobile Concern at Sparr Heights

Construction of the first brick building at Sparr Heights is announced by Manager D. F. Bower of the East Broadway, Glendale, office, the structure to be known as the Anderson & Tupper building, headquarters in that territory for the distribution of Lincoln and Ford automobiles.
The contract has been let to Harry E. Betz, 424 North Kenwood street, said to be the first bricklayer and contractor in the city and who enjoys the reputation of having literally "built up Glendale brick by brick." What
Mr. Betz has done for this city,
he now plans to do for Sparr Heights, seeing in that rapidly growing center another Glendale.
The Anderson & Tupper
building will be erected on Lincoln and Verdugo roads, states
Mr. Betz, "midway between Glendale Verdugo park and Montrose.
The structure will be of concrete and buff brick, daylight style,
with reinforced steel bridge construction, steel window-sashes
and other quality specifications, making it a strictly fire-proof building."

Mr. Betz reports that this is but the first of numerous brick structures to go up on the Sparr Heights tract.

Will Ask Bids for School Furniture

Bids for auditorium chairs, class room desks, library furniture and electric fixtures for the new high school plant, probably will be awarded within the next two weeks, according to Principal George O. Moyle. He stated this morning that it was impossible to install the heating apparatus in the floor of the auditorium until
it has been ascertained the type of seats which will be installed. He asserted that it may be necessary to order some of these items from the east and that plenty of time should be allowed for their arrival.

Georgia 'Gas' Tank Nets Handsome Sum

ATLANTA, Ga., April 30.—
The state of Georgia will receive $200,000 from its cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline during the first quarter of 1923, according to an estimate made by W. H. Harrison, chief clerk in the Comptroller-General's office. Four of the largest companies out of fifty doing business in Georgia have already paid in $168,972.07.

Glendale Women Will Attend College Meet

Pomona College's Women's Day
Saturday, will be attended by Miss Mary Barbara Taylor, who will represent Glendale Union
high school in the tennis tournament, and Mrs. Ethel F. H. Moyle and Miss Doris Moyle. In the evening they will witness the May Mask.

COFFEE SHOP TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

Appetizing Foods, Combined With Modest Prices, to Lure Hungry Ones

"When Peggy's Coffee shop
opens at 105 North Glendale avenue, on Wednesday, May 2," says Mrs. H. Boring, who is known al-over Glendale as Peggy, "we are going to have a restaurant where pastry and meats will combine in a most appetizing manner, at prices that will make us the working man's friend. Our pies and coffee, particularly, will be really delicious."

So says Peggy, who is too modest to say that the reason her pastry and pies will be delicious
is because she makes them herself.
And as for the chef, and what he contributes, Peggy's Coffee Shoppe is fortunate in having as master of the ovens and ranges
L. L. Black, who has been a chef
by profession ever since he professed to be anything, which was about the time he was knee high to a grasshopper. But Mr. Black is modest too, and though he admits that he will surprise the patrons of the shop with the savor
his foods will have, nevertheless,
it is Peggy that premier laurels should go.

Both chef and pastry cook
agree that Peggy's Coffee Shoppe
will be just about the neatest, cleanest, hunger satisfying little food-dispensary in Glendale.

Connecticut Clings To Old Yank Names

NORWALK, Conn., April 30.—
A plea for retention of old Yankee names for localities here has been made by many citizens. City officials, in setting aside acres of shore land for a public park and bathing beach on Long Island Sound thought the original settlers' name of Cold Pasture Beach best high-sounding enough for modern folks and were amazed at the protest.

Uncultured Cops Are Taboo in Washington

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A policeman must be very polite in making an arrest in Washington or he'll be called a bad-mannered cop by his superiors.
Policeman C. B. Morgan arrested
Herbert C. Cave, a public hauler, on a disorderly conduct charge. The court released Cave, declaring Morgan had been "impolite" in making the arrest.

Special Japanese Car For Women, Children

TOKIO, April 30.—That women and children in Tokio may board special type of car has been put into use here. The cars follow
the lines of the regular tramcar of Tokio, but are lower, and the seats are more comfortable. Thirty-nine such cars are now in use on the main lines of Tokio.

In line with their policy of expansion, the Page Furniture Company, 306-308 East Broadway, announce that H. G. Myers, four years with Barker Brothers, Los Angeles, has become general manager of their organization.

Mr. Myers, a resident of Glendale, living at 1022 Virginia avenue, states that in assuming this new position he plans to develop further the rapidly growing business of the Page Furniture Company.

He intends, he says, to develop their business not only along lines
of equipping private homes with the very best quality of furniture
at remarkably attractive prices,
but that it is his intention to reach out into the bungalow court
and apartment house business.
"Because of large stocks carried by the Page Furniture Company," states Mr. Myers, "and on account of the facilities at their command, we are now in a position to equip from top to bottom
any apartment or court, no matter how large. And we are in a position to furnish estimates that will command attention."

Burglars Foiled in Raid on Lewis Store

An attempt was made last night to rob the Lewis jewelry company's Jensen Arcade store, 123 North Brand boulevard, as was evident by the twisted cylinder in the Yale lock when the official force arrived this morning, reports J. C. Butler, proprietor of the store.

The cylinder had been gripped and pulled out, evidently by means of some sort of special wrench used by burglars, as the metal was curiously chewed in places. But the bolt held and the attempt to gain entrance into the jewelry store was unsuccessful.

The police have examined the lock and taken copies of the fingerprints plainly visible thereon.
An investigation will be conducted.

Students of French Invited to Classes

Glenadians, who are interested in the study of French, have been invited by Mrs. Ethel W. Bailey, member of the high school faculty,
to attend the opening of the third term of the adult French class between 7 and 8 o'clock tomorrow night in room 306 at the high school. This is given under the auspices of the University Extension Course.

Reno Officers Weep As Tear Gas Flows

RENO, Nev., April 30.—Reno's
mayor, chief of police, police judge and a host of lesser city officials scurried to the streets in a driving rainstorm recently when a tear bomb exploded in the office of the chief of police. The bomb was one of many ready for use against bootleggers and entrenched criminals.

U. S. FILMS TOO HIGH, IS CLAIM

Americans' Desire Should Be To Keep Down Price, Says
Sir Oswald Stoll

LONDON, April 30.—"People who have made great fortunes in the motion picture industry, people like Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin and Douglas Fairbanks, owe it to the industry that made them, and which they helped make and cannot wish to destroy, to see that exhibitors get their films at the lowest reasonable price, not the highest possible price. Their help is needed by the industry in these hard times."

Sir Oswald Stoll, head of the Stoll Film company, the largest picture producing concern in Great Britain, voiced in the words noted the protest of British motion picture exhibitors against "extortionate prices," which, they claim, they are being forced to pay for the "really good" American films. American producers, they contend, must cut the price
of their product and improve the general quality of their pictures
if they are to continue to reap profits from the British motion picture field.

For Small Profit
"The lowest profit on which exhibitors can live must be more than sufficient to compensate the occasional losses to which every exhibitor in hard times is exposed," Sir Oswald continued.
"These stars of the screen who draw the public have it in their power to insure this profit by limiting the price that an exhibitor can be charged and by insisting on the exhibition of their pictures at the orthodox picture theatres only. If this were done
the jobbers in pictures, who exploit them unfairly to the detriment of the whole industry,
would have to change their methods."

The business methods of many American producers were roundly scored by Sir Oswald. He predicted that unless these methods were changed Americans not only would lose the foothold in the film industry that they have gained in Europe but would strangle their own business in the United States.

Want Good Films
"The exhibitors of foreign films," Sir Oswald said, "are interested in the cinema, but the good films are not allowed to reach the orthodox exhibitor, except at extortionate prices. The mediocre foreign films he is allowed to have at so-called reasonable prices. Most of these pictures are not worthy of being shown by the general exhibitor at any price."

The foreign films are to be shown in this country, the good films, as well as the bad, should be at the disposal of the general
exhibitor at prices that will enable him to make a profit. If foreign producers and their financial backers do not recognize this they will kill the picture industry.

To controvert the activities of American producers, who now almost monopolize the British picture field, it is planned to hold a
"British Film Week," Sir Oswald
revealed. British picture theatres are to be asked to show during one week in 1923 only films that have been produced in England.

Backs Home Product
"British pictures are more remunerative to the exhibitor than some seem to believe," Sir Oswald
continued. "In our own business
last year a comparison was made between the average weekly profit for the number of weeks in which British pictures were shown and the average profit for the whole year. The average for the British pictures was the higher of the two by a substantial amount."

British film magnates was outspoken in his condemnation of the "methods of a few astute American speculators whose sole activities are a huge financial advertising scheme!" He charged that the American motion picture industry is being strangled by a
"producing ring."

Sir Oswald deplored film censorship.

Magellan's Helmet Is Found in Philippines

NEW YORK, April 30.—The brass helmet worn by Magellan, the great explorer, in 1521, has been located in the Philippines
by Major H. D. Selton, U. S. A.,
according to word received here.
He purchased the helmet from Moros, who told him the history of the headpiece. He is confident it is genuine.

Former Russ Royalty Work as Chauffeurs

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 30.— Correspondents here have high-ranking personages to chauffeur them about in tin Lizzies. One reporter has a full-fledged general who pilots one of Henry's namesakes for him whenever he wants to make a trip. Another flivver is driven by a count of aristocratic lineage. They are down-and-out Russian refugees.

UPHOLDS DECISION

SACRAMENTO, April 30.—Upholding a decision of the Sonoma county superior court finding W.
A. Cockrell, Santa Rosa attorney, and Y. Akada, a Japanese, guilty of conspiracy in attempting to effect the transfer of agricultural property to a Japanese in violation of the anti-alien land law, the third district court of appeal today handed a decision ruling that when evidence shows an intelligible allegiance furnished the money with which to purchase real property,
it shall be taken as prima facie presumption of guilt.

CLARA READY TO BATTLE TO END

Woman Suspect Says She Will Oppose Extradition To United States

By JOHN EWING
Former United States Ambassador to Honduras
International News Service, Special Correspondent.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Apr. 30.—"Mrs. Jesse Carson," who is under arrest here and who has virtually confessed that she is Clara Phillips, notorious "hammer murderess" of Los Angeles, declared today that she will fight extradition to the last ditch.

The International News Service correspondent was largely instrumental in having the woman arrested, along with her two companions, Jesse Carson and "Mrs. R. M. Young." She was taken into custody after the correspondent showed the police authorities a photograph of Clara Phillips printed in a New Orleans newspaper on January 27.

This same picture was shown to "Mrs. Carson" Sunday afternoon. "That is certainly a good photograph of me," exclaimed the prisoner, as she gazed at it critically. She smiled and cried bitterly.

Refuses to Admit
"I believe I could have gotten away if these accused photographs had not been scattered throughout the country."

Asked if she would admit point-blank that she is Clara Phillips, the prisoner said:

"Certainly not."

She contradicted this denial by saying:

"It may be that some people will not want me back in Los Angeles so bad as they now seem to desire. I can probably tell things which will make it very uncomfortable and embarrassing for some people in authority. Anyhow, what's the use of giving up the fight until it is over?"

The woman was asked to tell about her escape from prison. "Oh, that will all come out when they get Clara Phillips," she responded. "I can't say anything about that."

Poor Funds Spent on Cosmetics, Is Charge

INDIANAPOLIS, April 30.—Too much cosmetics and not enough common sense.

That is the verdict of the township trustees, the public health nurse, and others who aid the needy in Marion county.

"In all the homes I have visited where the household may have been destitute of practically all comforts, the baby needing shoes, and a 'square' meal an unknown quantity, I have never failed to see a lavish and adequate supply of cosmetics on the dressing table or bureau," Miss Margaret Harter, health nurse, said.

"You'd be surprised at the hole this makes in the already limited income of families depending on the township for help," one trustee declared, when asked about conditions in his district.

"I recently was in a home where conditions were such that it became necessary to extend aid, but my daughter, who made a visit there later, saw some toilet water, a lip-stick and other feminine beauty adjuncts purchased with township money," he continued.

"This showed a lack of common sense in finances and it is that which keeps many persons in dire circumstances as often as a too-restricted income," he declared.

Figures on the amount of cosmetics consumed are not available, but recent estimates made on the face powder consumption placed it at 4,000 tons annually in the United States and this amount was said to be increasing.

As for common sense, Dr. J. N. Hurty, for twenty-five years secretary of the Indiana State Board of Health, in a recent interview said that he could prove by indisputable figures that the whole country would be crazy by 2123.

Family Row Ends in Shooting of Three

DUBUQUE, Ia., April 30.—Charles Correll, 40, early today shot Mrs. George Gibson, his mother-in-law, and Mrs. Pearl Correll, 36, his divorced wife, and then ended his own life. The triple shooting was the climax of a series of threats made by Correll, it was said. Mrs. Gibson is dying, and Mrs. Correll, with part of her jaw shot away, is in a critical condition.

MAKES NEW WORLD'S RECORDS

Just Completes Tour Lasting For Two Years

Lady Richard Browne & Mitchell Hedges

Mitchell Hedges is shown here with Lady Richard Browne, a fellow passenger on a liner from South America. Mr. Hedges has just completed a two years' tour of exploration into sections of South America in which no white man had ever before set foot. During the trip he made seven new world's records for catching big fish. In the above photograph he is showing some of the record-breaking sharks' jaws which were part of his catch.

KEEPING TRACK OF FUEL ECONOMY

The Economical Car Is General By The Well Conditioned Car. With the present high price of gasoline likely to advance still further, there is an added incentive to keep track of a car's gasoline consumption, and the best way to do this is to keep an accurate record of the number of gallons added to fully replenish the tank, at each filling and the odometer reading on each such occasion. To figure the miles per gallon obtained between any two fillings, it is only necessary to divide the difference between the two odometer readings by the number of gallons supplied during the period in question. For example, if on March 1st, the odometer reading was 6,325 and on May 1st 6,802, the car was run 477 miles and if the tank was completely filled on these two dates and 31 gallons were supplied, including the filling of the last but not of the first date, the average gasoline economy during the period would be 477 divided by 31 or 15.4 miles per gallon. The longer the period of time and the more the car is run, the more accurate the results obtainable in this way, assuming the records are correct. For those motorists who object to keeping such memoranda continuously, gasoline economy can be checked up occasionally in an approximate way as follows: Just before starting upon a fairly long trip, set the car on a level floor, fill the tank exactly full and record the odometer reading and, upon returning, place the car in a level position, fill the tank exactly full, with gasoline handled in an accurate measure, read the odometer and divide the mileage run by the number of gallons required to replenish the tank. The miles per gallon thus obtained will be higher than can be obtained in average service, especially if the trip is a long one.

defect. Will it pay me to have it repaired? What is the average life of a generator armature? Answer: It is not considered profitable to repair armatures, which are in serious trouble. Manufacturing costs are so low that it doesn't pay. You had better take this armature to another electrical service station and get a confirmation of the verdict that it is defective. It is pretty hard to set a life of these armatures, but 15,000 miles of service may be as good a guess as any. A great many armature defects would be indicated by outside signs, such as burned commutator bars, broken leads, soaked insulation and the like, but others would not be visible.

Answer: Of course there is a knack in shifting gears, some transmissions and conditions requiring a quick and some more deliberate action to secure the best results. If there is any trouble with the mechanism it may be that the clutch does not release fully and thus keeps the gears spinning and difficult to mesh smoothly. Possibly the clutch-brake which is designed to slow down the spinning gears does not act strongly enough to be effective or, on the other hand, it may work too harshly and not give time enough for shifting. Possibly the lubrication of your transmission may not be such as to promote easy shifting. If some one else can make the shifts all right, you may be to blame for the trouble experienced, but, if not, one of the defects which we mentioned above probably exists.

LA CRESCENTA DANCE TO RADIO

Guests at Culbertson Home Play Many Games at House Party

Miss Janet Culbertson entertained a group of young friends Saturday evening at a dancing party. Dancing was indulged in to the music of the radio and many enjoyable games were played.

Miss Marie Czerniski won a first prize for adding lines to poetry, the small charm being wrapped in numerous packages and handies, the outer one being a hat box.

Those present were Marion Keith, Dorothy and Virginia Keifer, Marie Czerniski and Betty Morrison; Messrs. Tex and Robert Hendrix, Ted Burke, Dean Culbertson and Walt Zomv.

Miss Sarah and Jessie Conlin are spending the week-end at the Conlin ranch, close to Palm Springs. Mrs. Conlin has also as her guests, Carroll and Francis Foy of La Crescenta.

The Keifer family of Honolulu avenue are expecting to move to Hollywood to be near Mr. Keifer's place of business.

Miss Laurelle Cadmus of Sierra Madre visited Miss Fennell Lorraine on Sunday. They spent the afternoon rehearsing the numbers they will use at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach on Thursday of this week. The affair is a reception given for the Rotarians.

Miss Cadmus has a splendid voice and is a pupil of Madame Ellen Beach Yaw. Miss Lorraine is her accompanist.

Picture Show Opens
Friday, the opening night for the weekly picture shows was well attended, which was most encouraging to the co-managers of the show, Henry Peters and A. C. Farley.

Mrs. George Wellington furnished the music. The children were particularly enthusiastic over the comedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of Long Beach were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Keith on West Altura avenue. Mrs. Nelson teaches in the George Washington school in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown of West Montrose avenue attended the annual inauguration ball at the Elks' clubhouse Saturday, taking with them as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Earl Zomy of Liberty street and Mrs. Mary B. Darrow of East Montrose avenue.

Master Douglas Armstrong of Fast Montrose avenue is convalescing from his serious attack of influenza.

SOUTH LEADS IN TRUCK SHIPMENT

Fruit and Vegetables From Southern California Total 74,480 Carloads

The total shipments of fruits and vegetables from Southern California in 1922 were 74,480 cars, compared with 53,635 cars from Northern California. Los Angeles county shipped 20,845 cars of fruit and vegetables last year. Imperial Valley shipments totaled 19,554 cars in the same period.

Oranges predominated in shipments from this county, the number being 5297. This was followed by lettuce with 3368 cars, mixed vegetables 2890 cars and cauliflower 2005 cars. Lemon shipments totaled 1825 cars and white potatoes 1559 cars. The smallest shipments were in sweet potatoes, dried prunes and watermelons.

GIVES HINTS FOR GARDENS IN CITY

Uniformity of Treatment Is Aid to Beautifying Sites Of Homes

The individualism of the average American is probably at once his saving grace in business and progress, and his besetting sin in certain of his communal relationships.

Most of us are willing to co-operate with our neighbor along any line at all, as long as his ideas do not conflict with ours, but when it comes to matters of community interest and beauty it may take some persuading to convince our inner man that his first impulses and strong desires are not always the best, either for the community or himself.

The average urban dweller is probably limited to a front yard fifty feet in width, with his house placed at a very slightly variable distance from the street line.

Whether his street frontage is fifty feet or one hundred and fifty, he can not escape from the fact that the scope of his garden activity is held within very definite and limited confines—that his boundaries are narrow, stiff and rigid.

If he wishes a secluded garden for himself, it must generally be located at the side or the rear of the house.

It is usually inevitable that the front yard is open to the public gaze, and that it should be planted with this unavoidable condition in mind.

Seek to Harmonize

Realizing this fact, the small home owner should bear with his neighbor, should have due consideration for the improvements and planting that have preceded him, and should try to make his planting harmonize with that of the neighborhood, rather than stand out as a striking example of something different.

There are, no doubt, few of us who do not feel the quiet and restfulness of a well maintained residence block in which the buildings, the harmonious design and construction, the planting is carried out in a unified way and the street trees are of one variety.

The beauty of this is in contrast to the "jazz" block which contains as many clashing variations of treatment as there are developed lots next to it.

A few general rules for planting the small front yard may be of help to the home landscape artist, although there are no iron-clad statements that will do always to follow.

Most houses are improved in appearance by proper and adequate foundation planting of shrubbery along their bases.

As viewed from the street, they should have higher, flanking masses at the sides.

From Background

If there is sufficient room for trees and ample space for their perspective view, they should be planted at the sides or rear of the house to form an enfranchisement, background or skyline.

Space does not permit the planting of trees in the center of open areas of a fifty foot lot, as is commonly done on either side of the entrance walk.

Such trees soon develop to a size out of scale and proportion with the size of the property, and ruin opportunity for a pretty yard. Such open areas should be devoted to lawn.

Shrubbery and flowers belong at the back (against the house) and along the sides of the picture. The central foreground should be kept in low relief.

RAILWAYS WILL SPEND BIG SUM

More Than $700,000,000 To Be Put Out During Year for Improvements

CHICAGO, April 28.—Returns from one-third of the mileage in the United States indicate that the railroads will spend more than $700,000,000 for improvements and additions during 1923, according to the Railroad Age in its annual report on railroad conditions.

Twenty-seven railroads operating an aggregate of 85,000 miles, or approximately one-third of the total mileage of the country, will spend something more than $350,000,000 for improvements to roadway and structures, and for new equipment, says the report.

"It may be assumed," the report adds, "that an equal amount will be spent by the remaining two-thirds of the railways."

Many improvements "This money will go for new lines, for second tracks, new yards and terminals, freight and passenger stations, shops and shop equipment, signaling, cars and locomotives and other facilities that make up railroad equipment."

"Large as this amount seems, it includes only those expenditures which have been definitely approved. Many other projects will be undertaken during the year, and their total will add much to the amount."

The Union Pacific is listed as having approved expenditures for 1923 amounting to $20,000,000.

The report states that a large part of these appropriations will go to terminal facilities, as "these have been regarded as the limiting factor in fixing the capacity of the railroad. It is here that congestion first develops and becomes most pronounced."

Insurance Is Denied To Liquor Peddlers

AKRON, Ohio, April 30.—Akron bootleggers cannot obtain insurance on their lives, much less on their wares, through local agents.

"They are bad risks," said one insurance man. "They may be killed any time while fleeing from officers of the law. We have rejected many policies in the last few months, after learning the applicant was engaged in this highly hazardous occupation."

Even heavy drinkers of bootleg whiskey are out of luck. Though their liquid preferences make life insurance more desirable for their heirs insurance companies are not anxious for their business.

LITTLE RED HEN HAS NEW RECORD

Egg With Three Yolks Laid By Rhode Islander in Robison Flock

Now, chicken-fanciers and egg-fanciers, listen! Did you ever in your life hear tell of a triple-yolker, an egg with three separate and distinct yolks?

L. E. Robison, of 111 North Kenwood street, has, at seventeen Rhode Island Reds and one of them last Wednesday laid such an egg. It was a monumental work of nature, but, as these hens generally lay double-yolkers, large eggs had ceased to be a curiosity in the Robison family.

Mrs. Robison, consequently, in preparing a supper Wednesday night, took said egg and gently but firmly broke it into the skillet—when suddenly her husband, in the next room, heard a shriek and came rushing to her aid, thinking perhaps she had burned herself.

Three Eggs in Pan

Arriving on the scene, he beheld her gazing with the rapt fascination of a mystic into the skillet. Following her gaze, Mr. Robison saw three average size eggs unconcernedly frying away.

"Well, I don't see anything to holler about," he grumbled, and started back into the living-room, where he had left off in the middle of something or other.

"Wait!" gasped Mrs. Robison, coming out of the trance and grasping her husband's arm tremulously. "Th—they all came out of the same shell!"

Mr. Robison now avers that his hens have proved him to be as big a southern California booster as his wife, a thing he would not have thought possible.

Police Are Ready To Quell Strike Violence

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—The police took stringent measures to prevent outbreaks of violence at Los Angeles harbor when it was learned that the Pacific Coast Steamship Owners' association had issued a warning that unless strikers return to work before noon today strikebreakers would be imported to fill their places.

Threats, said to have been made by J. W. W., who are credited with calling the strike among stevedores and lumber workers, that if outside influence is brought to bear they "will fight to the end," spurred officials to prevent any acts of sabotage and outbreaks.

FINAL SERVICES FOR MRS. BRALY

Impressive Tribute Is Paid to Beloved Woman by Numerous Friends

the only ones placed in the sarcophagus with the casket.

Conducts Services
Dr. S. T. Montgomery, long time friend of Mrs. Braly, and superintendent of the anti-saloon league was the officiant. It was her wish that he conduct the service, which he opened with the reading of the Twenty-third Psalm and the Fourteenth Chapter of John. These passages, favorites of Mrs. Braly, who was a brilliant Bible student, were the only scriptural readings.

An impressive tribute was paid by the General Richard Gridley chapter, members, who attended in a body and who were represented in the service by Mrs. Gertrude Follansbee, who, at the request of Mrs. Braly, read a tribute she had paid to Mrs. Braly at the D. A. R. annual white breakfast June 2, 1921 at La Ramada. At that time Mrs. Follansbee was chapter chairman.

The tribute was:
"It is with much humility that I stand before you this afternoon, since I have been chosen as a matron, the mouth-piece, through which our chapter wishes to express a little of the love it feels for our dear regent. It is easy to speak light words of flattery, but real emotion is hard to express in mere words.

"Time, for most of us, passes with increasing rapidity. The days fly by and the uneventful are unheeded and forgotten, the eventful ones leaving their record of joy or sorrow upon memory's walls.

Beloved Chapter

"We who are gathered here find nine days in the year standing out as bright milestones in the 365. They are the first Thursday of each month from October to June, when we hold the meetings of our beloved chapter. And of these nine milestones, the last, the one which comes in June, shines with a particular brightness, for on that day our regent has been wont to bid us to the White Breakfast, and queen of hostesses is she.

"We are very prone to accept the kindness of friends as a matter of course while they are living, then when they pass on to higher planes we stop and recount their virtues. But today gathered here under these beautiful trees in one of the most favored spots in Southern California, and spread before us the world, we tell Mrs. Braly a little of what her influence is to us.

"We do not have to know her long to realize that her life is and always has been one of loving thoughts and kindly deeds. And we believe that a kind deed once set in motion, goes on and on forever. So surely of her may it be said as of old 'her price is far above rubies. She stretcheth out her hands to the poor, yea, she reacheth forth hands to the needy. Strength and honor are her clothing and she shall rejoice in time to come. She openeth her mouth with wisdom and in her tongue is the law of kindness. Her children rise up to call her blessed, her husband also and he praiseth her."

"The greatest blessing she has given us is starting General Richard Gridley chapter.

Thirteen Meet

"It was in 1913 that the chapter had its beginning. Thirteen, the fateful number of misfortune and death! But Mrs. Braly knew it was the number of change and change denotes effort and exertion, just what was needed to make our chapter successful. One added to three makes four, the perfect square, so it becomes the number of regeneration and transformation. Its vibrations are solar and so our chapter has always had its atmosphere of sunshine and love.

"In this atmosphere our regent has gathered us together from month to month, guiding us and teaching us lessons of unselfish devotion to others, and earnest desire to do our little part wherever we may to make the world a better place to live in.

"Giving us our example each month of wonderful hospitality, which we can never hope to return.

"To have come under Mrs. Braly's influence, to have basked in the sunshine of what she is will ever be to us, her daughters, one of life's choicest blessings.

"The words I have spoken are but a very imperfect expression of our love for Mrs. Braly. Let us rather speak to her in the language of flowers, and so give her

TAKES LIMIT OFF SARDINE CATCH

Cheaper Fertilizer to Result From Amendment to Fish And Game Laws

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News

SACRAMENTO, April 30.—Greater fishing industry for Southern California; cheaper fertilizer for the farmers, and increased agricultural yields.

These are three things promised in the adoption of amendments to the present fish and game laws which will take the limit off the catch of sardines in California waters for four months during the year when the flow is unlimited.

Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena, in conjunction with Senator Jo Rominger of Long Beach, the latter chairman of the fish and game committee of the state senate, worked out these provisions now pending before the legislature. No opposition is anticipated.

This enactment will enable the fishing interests to manufacture cheap fish meal fertilizer without endangering the present supply of food fish, according to Senator Johnson, and it will reduce the cost to farmers for this necessary phosphorescent addition to the soil from present prices of $60 to $75 per ton to $20 or $25 per ton.

Make Huge Catch
"It is possible for fishing smacks to move through one of these schools of sardines," says Senator Johnson, "and in a single day load from 250,000 to 500,000 tons of the fish, and even then, so great is the school that this huge catch would scarcely make an impression on the quantity."

"There is no limit to the supply of sardines, the fish and game committee learned from University of California experts. There is no reason why this fertilizer for orchardists and wheat growers alike should not be available to California in great quantity and low price."

The interior United States, the South American fisheries, and those of the east coast now are furnishing this state with fertilizer, and the farmer is paying the freight, all because local fisheries must use eighty to ninety per cent of their catch for food purposes under present laws.

Far Out at Sea
For the information of those who might question the theory that the sardine supply is unlimited, Senator Johnson states it is only necessary to cite the fact that sardine mackerel spawn far out at sea, not along the coast or in rivers. Scientists have been unable to determine just where these spawning beds are located, but is substantiated by the California fish and game commission experts there is no need to protect them in coast waters to prevent their extinction.

The same benefits derived by orchardists from fertilizing with fish meal will be extended the grain grower, to whom the cost has been prohibitive. And in this way the agrarian prosperity of the state will be multiplied one hundredfold, in the opinion of Senator Johnson.

If the present legislature has done nothing else than to accomplish the one purpose of providing the farmers with cheap fertilizer, it will have justified its existence, in the opinion of those who are conversant with the potentialities of this proposition.

This one, this red rose, the symbol of love."

A brief tribute and prayer by Rev. Montgomery closed the service, which was followed by interment in a sarcophagus in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

The pallbearers, all close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Braly, were Daniel Campbell, C. D. Lusby, W. E. Evans, Frank Echols, S. C. Leppelman and Calvin Whitling.

Arrangements for the service were in the hands of the Jewel City Undertaking company.

Dies on Thursday
Mrs. Braly's death occurred at the family home Thursday night, following a long period of failing health and a recent two weeks' illness from pleural pneumonia.

She was a club woman, philanthropist, church worker and scholar past president and honorary life member of the Tuesday Afternoon club; organizing and life regent of the General Richard Gridley chapter, D. A. R.; member of the Eastern Star, the Friday Morning club of Los Angeles, the City club of Los Angeles, the Congressional club.

GIVE PRIZES FOR BUNGALOW PLANS

Bentley Lumber Co. Starts Contest for Pupils of Glendale Schools

The Model Bungalow Contest that has been started by the Bentley Lumber Company, and which is open to all students in good standing in the Glendale Union High school, has aroused the keenest interest among the students, according to Donald R. Gilliam, manager of the company's service department, who states that the company is ready to lend every assistance, within the terms governing the contest, to every student who wishes to enter and compete for one of the prizes that are offered.

The date set for the judging of the various entries is May 23, and as a further inducement to the students to participate in greater numbers it is stated that the models entered in the competition will be shown at the Merchants' Industrial Exposition that opens May 25.

Terms of Contest
Contest open to all Glendale High school students.
No restrictions as to one or two-story.
One-story home must contain five, six or seven rooms (optional).
One-story home to contain not less than 900 square feet, not to exceed 1400 square feet.
All rooms must contain not less than ninety square feet.

Breakfast nook, bath room, screen porch, hallways, not classed as a room.
Scale of floor plan 1/4 inch to 1 inch.
Floor plan (drawn with pencil on tracing paper), showing arrangement and size of rooms to accompany model.

Home must be patterned from Spanish design.
Scale of model not over 1/2 inch to 1 inch nor less than 1/4 inch to 1 inch.
Basement considered a room.

Two-Story House
Two-story home must contain five, six, seven or eight rooms (optional).
Two-story home to contain not less than 1400 square feet, not to exceed 2000 square feet. All rooms must contain not less than ninety square feet.

Breakfast nook, bath room, screen porch, hallways, not classed as a room.
Scale of two-story floor plan 1/4 inch to 1 inch.
Floor plan showing arrangement and size of rooms to accompany model.

Home must be patterned from Spanish design.
Scale of model not over 1/2 inch to 1 inch, nor less than 1/4 inch to 1 inch.
Basement considered a room.

Plans for Judging
The prizes will be awarded by a committee of three architects, who shall judge each floor plan as to arrangement and general accuracy. The models will be judged as to correctness to detail and artistic appearance.

All models and floor plans to be ready for inspection May 23, 1923. Models will be placed on exhibition at the Glendale Industrial Exposition. Those participating in the contest must be present at the awarding of prizes.

Contestants are at liberty to consult our plan department at 460 West Los Feliz road. Through the courtesy of the F. S. Hartwell Company, 6113 Hollywood boulevard, contestants may see models made in a similar contest.

At least fifteen entries must enter the contest, for which the following prizes have been offered:
First prize, $35; second, $25; third, $15; fourth, $10; fifth, $5; sixth, $5; seventh, $5.

Bootblack Is Cheated
Out Of $1500 Savings
CHICAGO, April 30.—Harry Poley shined 37,000 pairs of shoes, saved $1,500 and looked for an investment. Two clever strangers looked over his money and said they would point out fortune to him. They didn't return and when Harry started to count his money again he found a roll of paper in his lock box instead. He is shining shoes again now.

Old Plaque Believed Valuable Antique

LIBBY, Mont., April 30.—An old plaque has hung on Attorney B. B. Maiden's wall for thirty years and has been shipped back and forth across the country a dozen times. COMMENT That's All Gamblers Juggling Prices Giving Gun To Robbers Harding And World Court Do Dead Want To Live?

By Gil A. Cowan

FEDERAL investigation seems only to send sugar higher and higher. Candy prices are soaring, and just as California fruits come into the market the cost of sweetening canned goods may become prohibitive.

It is an established fact that there is no world shortage of sugar, but the market gamblers juggle the stocks to their hearts' content, taking enormous profits from that and every necessity of life, it would seem.

Many people can do without sugar and many will do without it. A buyers' strike of all sugared products would break the market in two weeks' time.

However, a buyers' strike is not commendable. It injures the wrong party. And in the interests of equity and justice the government should immediately stop trading in sugar futures.

Sugar is not the only commodity in which there is an advance in price. We note the cigar trust demanding the little dealers to pay more for their goods, but the retail price for the time being is not affected. Watch and see if our ropes, now selling at two for 15 cents do not sell for a dime each.

The reason given for all the price advances should be satisfactory to the producer. "Increased cost of raw materials" means the farmer and planter is getting more. If you are to believe the manufacturer, and next the wonderful Pan-American building. We were then in Potomac park.

"On a direct line with the Capitol and the Washington Monument one could see in the distance the incomparable memorial which has been erected in honor of Abraham Lincoln. Such a shrine of colossal beauty is indeed most impressive, and the grandeur of the edifice is greatly enhanced by the exquisitely planned surroundings. A reflecting lagoon just at the entrance clearly outlines in its placid water both the tribute to Washington (the Washington Monument) and the Lincoln Memorial. I am told that hundreds of elms have been planted to add to the grace of an already almost perfect landscape.

"As we drew near the Lincoln Memorial we noted that thirty columns, one to represent each state in existence at the time of Lincoln's death, surround the hall, while on the wall just above are inscribed the names of the forty-eight states now in the Union. Seated in a huge chair facing the entrance and apparently gazing through the colonnade at the Washington monument is the splendidly heroic figure of Abraham Lincoln, done in marble by Daniel Chester French. An atmosphere of reverence and dignity pervades the hall, which, indeed, impresses the American with the greatness of the man who inspired the erection of such a wonderful memorial.

Lovely Picture
"Reluctantly leaving this ideal spot, we leisurely drove through beautiful Potomac park, where, on the side of the roadway flanking the waters of the Potomac for some distance, bloom the famous Japanese cherry trees, presented by the Japanese government to Mrs. Taft during the Taft administration. Just about to burst into bloom, these trees made a lovely picture.

"We rode further through old Georgetown, where my family lived when I was a child. This section of the city of Washington antedates the actual founding of the city proper.

"We then drove to Arlington cemetery, the last resting place of those heroes who made the supreme sacrifice for their country. The still, peaceful majesty of the scene makes it a fitting field of honor for those who are privileged to be laid to rest there. The uniform rows of headstones in the Fields of the Dead have inscribed upon each the name of the soldier lying beneath. But, sadder still, are the rows of uninscribed stones marking the graves of the unknown dead. The stones of the Civil War heroes are readily discernible from those of the soldiers of the Spanish-American and World wars for they are somewhat dimmed by the ravages of time, while those of the latter wars are gleaming rows of marble and granite.

Creating Beauty
"Here, as at the Lincoln Memorial, the landscape artist has brought into play all of his powers of creating beauty. The profusion of trees, the well-kept green lawns and rolling hills, make the site a noble and impressive one.

"Of course the principal spot of interest here is the new Memorial Amphitheatre, constructed of white marble and adorned with beautiful heavy columns. It is here that the Unknown Soldier of the world war was laid to rest. It has become a shrine for gold-star mothers, mourning for their sons who never returned from the conflict. The mothers visit the tomb from time to time to place floral tributes, and are often seen there in prayerful meditation.

"Before leaving the cemetery, a visit to Arlington House, which occupies one of the most beautiful sites on the grounds, was in order. Visitors are permitted to register their names in a book, which is kept in the drawing room, where, in the year 1811, Mary Custis was married to Col. Robert E. Lee. The house is remarkably well preserved and an object of admiration to all who are privileged to visit it."

weeks of my visit in the national capital, it is with enthusiasm that I review many interesting trips through the city with its historical spots made famous by America's great statesmen of former generations and the fitting memorials to those great men which have been erected during recent years. In trying to offer a vivid account of my 'tours' I fear that I shall soon be at a loss for superlatives suitable for accurate description.

"The preliminary trip was taken with a view of visiting the Lincoln Memorial and Arlington, the national cemetery, with a fleeting glimpse of many of the public buildings and executive departments as we passed through the streets of the city.

Lincoln Memorial

"Driving up old Pennsylvania avenue, we soon passed the Treasury, a dignified edifice of sandstone and granite, adorned with stately Ionic columns; and a short distance beyond the White House with its most inviting grassy lawns and gardens, and the trees about to don their leafy robes of green. And then further on, the State, War and Navy building, a magnificent office building, greeted the eye.

"Soon we were riding down Seventeenth street past the famous Corcoran Art gallery, the American Red Cross building and the Memorial Continental Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and next the wonderful Pan-American building. We were then in Potomac park.

It Dried by Morning

DADDY told them, when they were going to bed, that the floor he was painting would be dry by morning. But was it? The kiddies just had to try it, and sure enough, Daddy was right.

BASS-HUETER Over-Nite Floor Enamel

dries over night. This is essential in homes where all the floors are in daily use. Over-Nite Floor Enamel is easily applied, dries with a high gloss and is recommended not only for floors, but for linoleums, baseboards, stairs and all surfaces that must stand constant wear. Unless the floors are badly worn, one coat is sufficient. Heel marks will not mar a floor painted with Over-Nite Floor Enamel.

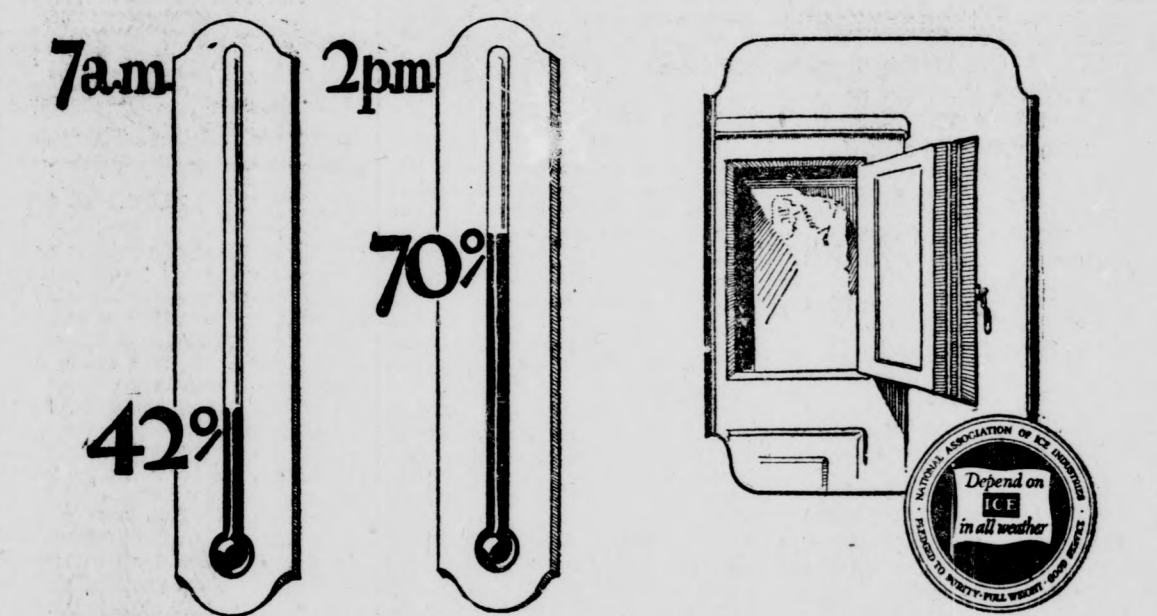

Twelve floor shades give you a wide range of colors to choose from. Full directions for applying are on every can, and if carefully followed, assure you of success.

We will gladly send you, free, a copy of the booklet "Paint Facts" or "The Way to Beautiful Homes." It contains a great deal of paint information of interest to you.

Spring weather spoils food -ICE saves it!

Temperature changes are rapid during these spring days. It is not unusual for the thermometer to rise 30 degrees between morning and afternoon.

These rapid changes promote the growth of bacteria. Germs spoil food.

The safe way to keep food stuffs is in a well-iced refrigerator. Ice costs very little; pays for itself in the food it saves. Use ice every day.

Hearts and Trees

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

Much has been written of the love which binds in childhood and lasts through the years, and there is much more that might be said of those stories which occur—the tales which would have been written had childhood lovers married.

Elsie Dodds wore a sunbonnet when she was ten and had a trick of twisting her apron when she talked. Samuel Green was seen, except for Sundays, in a suit of blue denim with the trademark of the manufacturer prominently displayed. They used to meet beside the three trees where the path crossed the creek bed, and there they talked of many things, from arithmetic to matrimony.

On his twelfth birthday Elsie gave Sam a jackknife, a big one with a star in the handle and a loop and chain. She waited until she met him on the path and shyly tendered her gift.

"They say it's unlucky to give a present which can cut," she said, "but I wanted to give you something you have been wishing for."

Sam's eyes opened wide with surprise and delight.

"Gosh," he said, "with that knife I can whittle you out a lot of fine things. It's just exactly what I've been wanting."

Then Sam, to test the blade, carved his initials in the trunk of the largest tree and formed a darling plan while he carved. Under the S. G. he carved E. D. and around them all a heart. Not once did he dare look to see the effects of his labors on Elsie.

"There!" he said when he was through, "how do you like that?" "I think it is beautiful," Elsie said, and made Sam's twelfth birthday the happiest of his life.

George James had just moved into his new home, the finest in town, and he was proud of the place and the grounds. A little fixing here and there and he would have a show place, he told himself, one of the kind he and his wife had dreamed about for years. George was middle-aged and stout and as much the lover as ever.

"Cut out all that brush," the home owner instructed Ward-town's man of all work; "level off that ditch and take out the trees. You see, they stand directly in front of the window and hide the view."

The man of all work set about the job mechanically, and gradually the grounds presented the finished appearance. The shrubs were cleared, then two of the trees fell.

"Mr. James," the gardener spoke softly, "I was figuring that maybe you didn't think it cut as well as you might. Don't you think it would be a shame to cut down that large tree? It is too beautiful to be killed."

James looked at the tree and back at the window. "It's a good tree, all right, but it obstructs the view. No, it will have to go." Then he walked down the street toward his office. When he returned that evening the tree was still standing. The gardener met him apologetically.

"I just could not do it, that's all. It's too good a tree," the man said. "No, sir, I won't cut it down. Take it out of my wages, if you like."

For a moment James was angry, then he smiled. "Well, if you won't," he said, "I will." "What do you think of Sam Green?" James said to his wife at dinner; "the stubborn old duffer won't chop down the largest tree, absolutely refuses."

Mrs. James looked out of the window, reached over and took her husband's hand. "Well, Elsie?" he said. "I think, George, it would be too bad to remove that old tree. It seems to fit well in the picture, after all. Please, let's keep it."

STRAIGHT-LINE FROCKS WITH TUCKS

Frocks made of gay linens, voiles and crepes for spring and summer wardrobes have, of course, the charming slender silhouette and are frequently trimmed with tucks. Particularly soft and pretty is the dress to the left in honeydew cotton crepe with stitching in back. Either tucks or deep bands of self-material may be used on the skirt. The front of the blouse is cut with a deep V-shaped neck. Batiste or lace may be used for the vestee. Medium size requires 5 1/2 yards 36-inch material.

The gown to the right is in almond green crepe, with an appealing beauty of line. The side panels are stitched with self-folds, while the sleeves and vestee are trimmed with tiny black and gold buttons. The long, deep roll collar emphasizes the slenderness of the silhouette. Medium size requires 5 1/2 yards 36-inch crepe. Other shades in which this model would look smart are beige, fallow, gray, china, blue and orchid.

Second Model—Dress No. 1480. Sizes, 36 to 50 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

We can think of proteins as the living substance of plants and animals. Proteins are sometimes defined as that element of the food which is used to build and repair living tissue. It is a much more complicated substance than are the carbohydrates and fats. In order to have this living substance, protein, in the body to make up its tissues, we must eat protein—because protein has to be made from protein. Fat can be built from fat or carbohydrates, but muscles, bones and all of the tissues must have protein or else they cannot build or repair themselves.

White of eggs, lean of meat, casein of milk, gluten of wheat are examples of protein foods. Proteins consist, as do carbohydrates and fats, of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen; but always in protein are also the elements of nitrogen and sulphur, and, in some proteins, phosphorus, iron and other minerals. But the element of protein that is characteristic, that we cannot get in any other food, is the nitrogen.

When the proteins are digested or broken down chemically it is found that they consist of a number of simpler substances we call amino acids. There are forty of these acids that are known in chemistry, but only eighteen which build themselves into the body tissue. Therefore we call these eighteen amino acids "building stones." Proteins that contain these eighteen building stones we call complete proteins, and we must have them, else we won't be complete. Not all of the vegetables contain all these building stones, so their proteins we call incomplete.

If these incomplete vegetable proteins were used exclusively in would not maintain their health, either, if incomplete proteins were used exclusively. This has been proved by animal experimentation as well as by observation upon children who have had inadequate diets. The incomplete proteins of plants, however, are not useless. In fact, they are very valuable, but they must not be depended upon for all the protein needs.

Because milk is the only food that is intended by Nature to support the higher animal life in its infancy, it must of necessity contain a sufficient amount of the best form of protein to build animal tissue. The protein in seeds is intended by Nature for the building of plants. So while seed protein is good, it is incomplete for animal life.

A child must have milk—and good, clean milk, for milk is just as good a food for bacteria as it is for the child. If the milk should happen to be contaminated with tuberculosis or typhoid or scarlet fever or other diseases, then your child would be liable to infection from them.

Cereals have incomplete proteins. That is why milk should be taken with them to supplement their proteins. Your growing child should have at least a pint and a half, and if under-nourished or very active, a quart of milk a day to be sure of this valuable supply of this complete protein. If he gets this amount of milk, a large proportion of his needs for complete protein and a wonderful supply of calcium will be furnished. (Fresh milk will also supply growth vitamins.) All of this milk need not be taken in the form of drinks. Some may be taken in the form of simple custards, soups or sauces.

Milk is so important a part of

BEAUTY CHATS

FATTENING THE SHOULDERS

There are so many possible ways of fattening thin shoulders that it seems a shame that any woman should go about always puritanically clothed up to her chin. It is nice to show pretty white shoulders now and then, especially of late years when the evening gowns have been so very low cut, and afternoon gowns have the "boat shaped" neck line that demands nicely shaped throat and shoulders.

Or, even if you live so simply that you never dress up beyond a tailored suit, it's still nice to know that the shoulders are attractive, whether they show or not.

Here are some hints:

At night bathe the skin with very hot water until it is red and the pores are open. Warm a little cocoa butter (holding the cake of it near a candle or lamp will soften it sufficiently) and massage the shoulders with this. Work the thick cream well into the skin, using the four fingers of each hand with a rotary motion.

The only trouble with this treatment is that the thick grease will stain your underclothes. I suggest that you wear a muslin jacket over the shoulders, just a piece of muslin with holes cut out for the neck and the arms, fastened under the arms and pinned in front with safety pins. This will cover the part that is saturated with oil and can be washed every few days by letting it soak in hot water and soap flakes. In the morning, when you take off the jacket, wash the skin with hot water and rinse with cold. By this time the skin will have absorbed sufficient fat.

You must not neglect deep breathing and arm exercises.

E. H. M.—The formula for the creams will be mailed to you if you send a stamped addressed envelope.

Here—A lotion for bleaching freckles is made by mixing together six drachms of lemon juice, ten ounces of hot water, one ounce of glycerine and two drachms of borax. Dissolve the acid and borax in the water and add the glycerine.

A dainty cosmetic may be made of this lotion if an ounce of red rose petals is included; in which case, honey should be infused for an hour and then strained through a sheer cloth. The essence is then added to the lotion.

Nourishing cold cream improves thin shoulders.

SHRINKAGE AS THE YEARS PASS

How things do shrink as the years pass by!

Not only the undershirts of the famous babies whose mother neglected to use the right kind of soap, but of ever so many things that you wouldn't think could possibly shrink from the nature of their makeup.

Pythons, for instance. For it was pythons that brought that familiar but not always recognized truth into my mind and into the conversation, and hence by a natural transition into my talk with you.

We were talking about traveling and seeing strange lands, and I was hoping before I died that I might go to South America and see pythons such as I had seen in the snake house at the zoo, hanging from the branches, in their natural habitat, that is if I should be quite sure that they would stay hanging on the branches and not feel moved to make our acquaintance a closer one.

A question as to the size of the python came up, and I averred that they were as long as the room (thirty feet long) and as round as this—meaning the circumference my arms would enclose.

Everyone laughed at that. I was told that a six-inch circumference was a large python. And when I countered with the pythons I had seen at the zoo when I was a child, which were certainly as big as I had claimed, I was reminded that things one sees as a child are apt to have shrunk if one goes to see them again as a grown-up.

Nazara Falls and Apple Trees "Like Nazara Falls," said the Author, "I saw it when I was a little boy and it was just as big and wonderful as I had thought it would be. Lots of things don't measure up, but that did. And then a while ago I was on a business trip out that way and I went and saw it again. And the whole outfit had shrunk. Why, it wasn't half the size it was when I was a boy. I wished I hadn't gone again."

That same day it happened—just as it happens when you see a word that you haven't seen before, and then find you are seeing it everywhere—that the same train of thought repeated itself in the afternoon. We were looking at an orchard of apple trees, and I was saying how I loved apple trees, how they seemed the most friendly trees, the most individual and personal and especially the most climbable trees. yard. Why, we used to climb way up to a seat that was terribly high. I wonder why those trees are so small."

The Contented Frame of Mind "Probably," suggested the Author, "for the same reason that pythons don't come as large as they did when you were a child."

"And that Nazara Falls has shrunk," I said.

"Exactly," said he.

And then we both sighed.

But, after all, I don't know why we should sigh that pythons and apple trees and Nazara Falls have shrunk instead of being glad that they were once so big. Might just as well be glad that thorns have roses as that roses have thorns.

The Weak Eyes That Come After Measles

Weekly Health Talk No. 28
By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds.C.

What measles may do to the eyes of the sufferer from this disease depends on the ability of the eyes to resist. Those in whom resistance is weak may be seriously affected, even blinded, while those in whom resistance is strong, will quickly recover after the course of the disease is run. Every mother owes it to the child that has had measles to see that the eyes come back to normal. To insure this the sufferer needs chiropractic spinal adjustments. The adjustments will raise resistance to normal by restoring the normal transmission of life impulses over spinal nerve and connection nerve lines.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:

"A bicycle, nevery, is a device for teaching that the only way to keep up is to keep going."

Eyes Are Normal

"For quite a number of years I suffered dreadfully with my eyes. I had headaches. After I started a course of chiropractic spinal adjustments I noticed a decided improvement. Today they are well and have not had a headache since."—Miss A. Goe, Chiropractic Research Bureau No. 1328H.

Face Is Window of Soul, Says Pastor

"Your face is the window of your soul!" exclaimed Rev. C. A.
Cole yesterday morning at the Central Christian church.
"It tells who lives within," he continued. "It is the index to your soul. It is the lighted battlefield which tells of battles lost and won in the struggle for character. It reveals the hidden springs of heredity which are determining your life.
"Every impulse of joy and sadness, of sorrow and of gladness, of envy and malice, of hope and frustration, is there revealed. The face, in a flash, as prompted by hate or love, changes its expression from hatred to joy, from anger to remorse. The face is a transparent veil thrown over the form of the spirit. Your face speaks. Your lips may be silent, but they speak.
The flash of the eye, the curl of the lip, the elevation of the nose,
the flush of the cheek, the frown
of the brow, the lighting up of the countenance, tell the story.
"The character analyst will tell you how color, texture and type of features reveal the secrets of temperament, disposition and other mental characteristics. But years before these men lived great men declared: 'Every face accurately represents the man behind it.'"

Rev. Winnard Preaches On Ministers' Pensions

"Should the Old Minister be Shot?" was the inquiry of Dr.
James C. Winnard yesterday morning at the Tropic Presbyterian church. His morning sermon was in regard to ministerial pensions. In the evening his subject was "Going Back to Our Old Sins."
Miss Frances St. Clair of 1250
South Maryland avenue and ten other delegates to the recent Christian Endeavor convention at Pomona had charge of the music
in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. H.
B. Goldsborough of 1937 Gardena avenue sang "I've Had a Glimpse of Jesus," as a duet.
At the morning service Miss Alta Mae Arnold of 214 Maryland court and Miss Nancy St. Clair of 1250 South Maryland avenue
united in singing "Whispering Hope." Comment was made during the day upon the fact that the new Ford which has been purchased by the congregation for the use of Miss Phoebe Snell of 116 East Eu-lalia street in her work at the Mexican mission at Monrovia,
will be delivered next week.

Red Russ Challenge Rev. Prout's Theme

The question, what will be the outcome of Red Russia's challenge to God? was answered by Rev. C.
S. Prout at the Adventist tabernacle in Eagle Rock Sunday night
by pointing to a historical parallel between Russia's present position
and that of certain nations mentioned in the Bible. By reading how Belshazzar, king of ancient Babylon, defied the God of heaven
at the drunken feast described in the fifth chapter of Daniel, the speaker said, and of the sudden judgment which came upon him
and his kingdom, one may know
what will happen to the nation
which as openly defies the same God today.

The speaker called attention to recent acts by which Russia's soviet government has proclaimed its atheism to the world, as reported in the Literary Digest of April 14. Effigies of Jesus, Moses and Mohammed were carted de-rively through the streets of Moscow and then thrown into fire
and burned, while young men dressed as devils mocked and challenged the beings whom the effigies represented. This blasphemous proceeding had the official sanction of the government.

King Belshazzar manifested his contempt for the God of Israel by taking the sacred vessels brought from the house of God at Jerusalem and using them in his drunken feast. The king and his princes and his wives drank wine from them, and praised the gods of Babylon. The same hour came the mysterious and fearful handwriting
upon the wall where they were feasting, proclaiming Belshazzar's doom; and the same night the king was slain and his kingdom came to an end. Not only Russia
but the nations of today in general, are coming to take an attitude of defiance toward God, the speaker declared.

GIVE CHURCH PLAY

Owing to the illness of Rev. E.
E. Ford, Rev. R. C. Morgan occu-

five members of the First Baptist church of Long Beach at the evening service presented a missionary play, "The Gifts of the Wise Men."

'Upturned Look' Is Topic of Rev. Funk

"The Upturned Look," was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

The text was taken from the first verse of the 121st psalm: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills."

"The sea is restless; the ceaseless ebbing and swelling of the tide disturbs the soul," declared Dr. H. C. Funk. "On the other hand, the mountains have a quieting effect communicating unto us something of their own strength."

"Man is the being with the upturned face, and we shall never find God, nor the higher things in life, as long as we go about with downcast eyes. The best things come only to those whose faces are inclined upward, toward the hills."

"If we keep our eyes downward, we can see only the dust,
the baser things. And if we keep our eyes on a level, we shall see only the greatness of the world
and be discouraged with the evidence of our own limitations. It is only when we look up that we begin to discover God, who alone is able to correct our vision. Then let us lift up our eyes unto the hills, whence our help must come.
"And yet we should remember that the language of our text is in poetic form, rich in suggestiv-ness; and that in reality our help comes from beyond and above the hills."

Man's Actions Bring Inevitable Harvest

"As we sow, so shall we reap," quoted Rev. C. M. Calderwood yesterday morning at the First Congregational church.
"The seeds of thoughts, actions, words and purposes bring their harvests," he continued.
"Like produces like. Whatsoever be it good or bad, be it high or low, be it noble or ignoble, be it exalted or debased, be it Godlike
or devilish, 'Whatsoever a man
soweth, that shall he also reap.'"

"Some perish and suffer, but it is not God's will. He wills the best and happiest for us, but He gives us the opportunity of choice and, when we do not choose the best, we suffer. God arranges things in such a way that the best choices are the wisest and happiest choices. It is better that we have discriminating tastes and sensitive stomachs and suffer a little than that we be hogs and swallow anything.
"The miseries of the world today are the results of sowing hatreds, greeds, selfishness and materialism. These things do not come to nations by chance or by the caprice of God, they come through the operation of the eternal laws of God."

Need of Friendship Stressed by Speaker

"Friends and Enemies" was the subject of Dr. Fareed's address on Sunday morning, April 29. He showed that enemies, on close acquaintance and clearer understanding, often prove to be friends. Natural phenomena, thunder and lightning, for instance, were, by primitive peoples, considered enemies, or evidence of the wrath of the gods,
whereas civilization's closer touch has found in electricity a most valuable friend.

Considering things as enemies makes them so to us. It is our own attitude that counts, and that is what Christ meant when He said "resist not evil." Meeting an enemy's attacks with genuine love and kindness in our hearts
dissipates and destroys the enmity
in his.

The world does not need new religions—it only needs practicing those we have. Friendliness is needed more than anything else and the art of being kind is the greatest art of all.
"So many paths that wind and wind
When all we need is being kind."

Friends are greater assets than wealth, and so it pays in a worldly way to cultivate a friendly disposition.

Each one of us is his own best friend and his own worst enemy.
We all love the companionship of a friend. A good test of whether you are a real friend to yourself
is to go out into some solitude
of nature and see whether you enjoy being alone with yourself for several hours. Your best friend, which is your inner, higher self,
is not developed if you must have people about you always, or have some kind of excitement going on for your entertainment all the time. Then you are an enemy to yourself.

"What's Wrong With the Average Church?" was the inquiry answered by Dr. V. Hunter Brink yesterday morning at the Central Avenue Methodist church. His evening topic was "Fathers and

Peter's Trial Sermon Bible Lesson Subject

Peter's trial sermon was the subject of the Bible lesson given by Rev. Kelly L. Brooks of Eagle Rock yesterday morning in the council chamber of the city hall before the Men's Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church.

"Peter said 'repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ,'" he exclaimed. "Three thousand people were saved. In these days it takes about three thousand sermons to get one convert. The Lord continued to add to the church daily such as would be saved." Only the Lord can make any real additions.
"God's church is everywhere split up too much into sections yet the Church of God is one. An up-to-date way of becoming a Christian is to join the church by telephone and send one's photograph to be sprinkled. But this is not the kind of additions God makes. His church is made up of the 'born again,' the pure, the meek. It is the one selected race from all Christian folds in every place."

Meaning of Pentecost Explained by Pastor

"The Significance of Pentecost" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.
"Pentecost had not fully come until the people of God were ready to embrace its life and blessing," asserted Rev. H. C.
Mullen. "Pentecost has no meaning to one who is not willing or who is unprepared to yield his life to obedience to the will of God. We live in a day of grace when Pentecost ever waits to dower the willing soul but also,
in which it never comes to the unyielding heart. Thus God's seasons of grace depend upon the readiness of His people to receive.
And we are full or empty, rich or poor spiritually as we heed or disregard the claims of Christ.
"Pentecost was preceded by a ten days' prayer meeting. Had there been no tarrying in the upper room in obedience to the command of Christ there had been no Pentecost. God's plans and program wait on the obedience and co-operation of man. Had there been no setting of the individual hearts in order during those memorable ten days Pentecost must have tarried. But, when human preparation was complete, Christ's promise ripened into the bestowment of the heavenly gift."

SINGS SOLO

Mrs. M. Straith-Miller of 912
Orange Grove avenue sang a solo
last night at the Presbyterian church. She also took the soprano part at both services in the Presbyterian quartet. Its other members were Mrs. F. M. Retts of 114 West Park avenue, J. M.
Huddy of Pasadena and Robert F.
Maile of Los Angeles.

Crisis in Believer's Life Is God's Call

Rev. W. E. Edmonds yesterday morning at the Presbyterian church preached from the text:
"And we came to Kadesh-Barnea."
"That is exactly where we are today!" he exclaimed. "History repeats itself. Israel coming out of Egypt had one crisis after another. Now they had come to Kadesh-Barnea, the border of the Promised Land.
"We would expect to see them
rushing over. But here unbelief came in. When the men sent to inspect the land returned, they reported a good land but impossible difficulties and the people listened to them instead of to God. And there God stopped them and turned them back to wander out forty years in the wilderness. Kadesh-Barnea was a great crisis point.
"To every believer's life comes a Kadesh-Barnea. Perhaps down in some sickness or sorrow is a call from God to you to come into a deeper life than ever before.
There are just two things a believer can do when he comes to his Kadesh-Barnea: He can turn his back upon the heritage of God
and go back into the wilderness or he can turn his face to the promised land of God."

SALE OF BONDS
The sale of $500,000 worth of TODAY—Ellis H. Martin contributes a column dealing with the new highway linking California with the east and with an interesting suggestion that Russian intellectuals be transplanted to a colony in the west.

TOMORROW—John D. Mueller of Chicago writes of the speckled beauties in the streams of the North woods that beckon to anglers.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—A new transcontinental highway which will have its terminus in northern California will be possible this year and an improved highway in 1924.

Announcement to this effect is made here following the successful culmination of an effort to raise $100,000 in northern California to assure the opening of the new artery eastward.

It will be known as the Victory highway and $750,000 will be expended in Utah and Nevada in 1923 and 1924 upon the highway. Of the $100,000 raised in northern California $50,000 will be given to the state of Utah. This sum will raise in that state, with federal and state aid, a total of $420,000, which will complete the Wendover cut-off—a vital link in the highway. The remaining $50,000, to be given to Nevada, will raise in that state with state and federal aid $350,000.

Prospects for opening the new cross country route for tourist travel were going glimmering through the prospect of Utah losing Federal aid when Northern California boosters, including the Automobile Association, the Highway Association and Boards of Supervisors got behind the project and pledged themselves to raise the $100,000 required to make the new trans-continent highway a reality. Improvement of the Victory highway between Salt Lake and California through Utah and Nevada is expected to divert considerable tourist travel to Northern and Central California which ordinarily goes to Southern California.

Northern California is just now engaged in a strenuous effort to turn the tide of tourist travel and home settlement to that section of the State. Southern California has long been the mecca for tourists and home seekers, largely because of the extensive advertising which had been done by boosters of that part of the State.

Through the medium of California, Inc., Northern California is busy "selling itself" to Easterners. This organization raised a large advertising fund and started a series of advertisements in national magazines. So effective has been this campaign that it was recently announced that 100,000 replies to the advertisements had been received. Even though but a small proportion of the inquiries are attracted to California as home settlers, it is pointed out a large increase in population is in prospect.

The advertising campaign has had some unique results. One was a suggestion from Turkey that educated Russians marooned there as a result of the revolution in Russia, be brought to California to form a colony. The suggestion was made in the form of a letter from Commander Robert Henderson, of the United States navy, now on duty in Constantinople. The unusual situation was explained as follows by Commander Henderson:

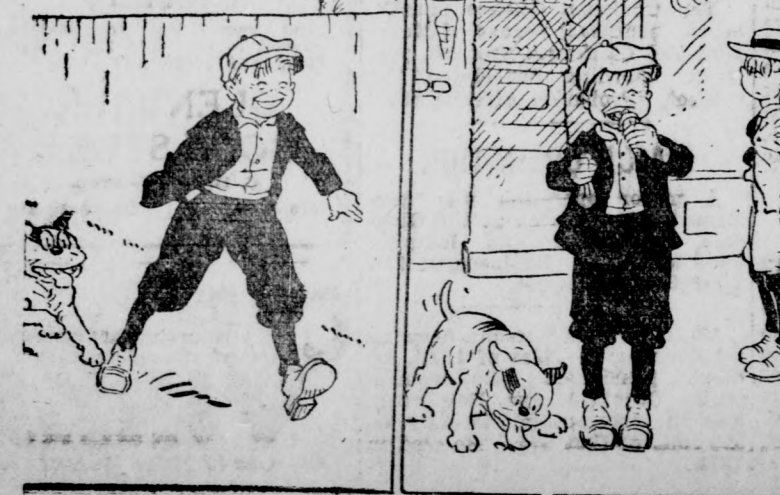

"I am at present on duty in the city of Constantinople, a city which at this time is a center of political unrest. Aside from the local political situation, which is one between the Turks on the one side and the Greeks on the other, and another condition, which is one between the Turks and the allies in general, a situation exists as a result of the revolution in Russia five years ago which has caused thousands of high-class Russian people to come to this city as refugees. These people, of course, being anti-Bolshevik, are of the higher class, consisting of ex-army and navy officers, professors, engineers, artists of all kinds, such as painters, sculptors, musicians and theatrical people. All of these people are living here, making a meagre existence at various kinds of work, and for the most part are willing to do any kind of work. Many of my friends have servants who are ex-colonels and ex-engineers. Artists and professional people spend their time in ordinary manual labor.

"The purpose of this letter is to make California, Inc., the following suggestion, which is not an appeal to your charity. If such a condition could exist that I personally owned a state or a large community, I would like nothing better than to transplant to the area under my jurisdiction a collection of these Russian intellectuals, who, if given an opportunity to be transplanted to a new country, would soon not only repay all expenses in money, but would be a wonderful addition in any community and would furnish an artistic and technical center for generations to come.

"This idea can be developed in two ways, such as introducing these people individually throughout the state or by establishing a Russian community. Such a community of artists and high-class artisans could be formed into a most interesting and self-sustaining community which would serve as an attraction to any city in which they happened to be located. The expense involved in transporting the people would not be great because water transportation could be provided all the way to San Francisco. These people, especially if traveling by themselves, would be willing to accept the most ordinary accommodations. The expense of transportation would be comparatively small.

"Of course, the Contract Labor laws would have to be carefully read before such a movement as this could take place, but I am convinced that if you could send a man to investigate the situation he would agree with me that some community in particular and the world in general is rapidly losing a valuable asset in permitting these wonderful Russians, with their artistic ability, congeniality and fine looks to be wasted as they are. I suggest this not as a matter of charity to them, although they are fully worthy of any consideration that could be shown them, but more to bring to your attention an opportunity for which your State will, I am sure, thank me if they follow it up."

THOS. JEFFERSON'S HOME IS SOLD

Famous Property Goes To People Of Virginia

Ex-Congressman Jefferson M. Levy, of New York, in whose family Monticello, the famous Virginia home of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, has been held for several generations, has finally consented to sell the home to the people of the state of Virginia for $1,000,000. It will be turned into a public memorial, as is Mount Vernon, the home of Washington. Mr. Levy has held the homestead, which bankrupted Jefferson and left him to die almost in poverty, in almost sacred regard and has lavished hundreds of thousands of dollars on it to keep it in perfect condition.

SCIENCE and INVENTION By Arthur Budd

LIGHTS FROM "NOBLE" GASES

RECENT experiments have proved that tomato and cucumber plants in forcing houses can be made to work double time by illuminating the houses with "neon" electric lamps. By this means they are induced to keep on growing at night and to produce more and bigger fruits. The results obtained are believed to be due to the fact that the fiery red rays of the neon lamps are readily absorbed by the chlorophyll of the plants.

A Helium Lamp (U. S. Bureau of Standards)

Neon is one of the rare, or so-called "noble," gases found in the atmosphere. There are four others—helium, argon, krypton and xenon.

The atmosphere consists, roughly speaking, of four-fifths nitrogen and one-fifth oxygen. But it contains nearly one per cent of the five rare gases above mentioned.

wave receivers using triple coil mountings have been obliged to purchase a complete short-wave receiver in order to receive telephone concerts satisfactorily.

The illustration shows an attachment, developed after careful study, to adapt any long-wave receiver using standard triple coil mountings into a highly efficient short-wave receiver by simply pulling the three honeycomb or duo-lateral coils out of the mounting and inserting the short-wave receiver in their place.

When a current of electricity is passed through a tube containing a gas, the latter is rendered luminous. Argon thus dealt with yields a brilliant white radiance. A helium lamp made in the same way has a beautiful golden glow. Krypton shows bright green; xenon a brilliant red.

The bulbs of the best electric lamps today are filled with argon and their filaments are of the metal tungsten. In a vacuum the tungsten would evaporate, but argon, a remarkably inert gas, interferes to prevent that. Thus it is made practicable to heat the filament to a much higher temperature, and the result is more light for a given amount of current.

Atmospheric air, in addition to the seven gases above mentioned, contains water vapor and some carbonic acid gas. When these two have been removed, the "noble" gases are separated out either by chemical processes or by freezing the air.

They are reduced from gases to liquids at different temperatures, and thus, by subjecting them to extreme cold, they can be "drawn off," so to speak, one after another. Helium is the last of the five to respond to this treatment, becoming a liquid at 518 degrees below the Fahrenheit zero.

Before long we are likely to see helium light employed by running around the ceilings of rooms glass tubes filled with that gas, which a small electric current will cause to give out a golden radiance, like yellow sunshine, soothing and agreeable to the eye. Light of this kind will cost about half as much, for a given candlepower, as the ordinary incandescent electric light—though, of course, the original installation will be more expensive.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND MAGGIE'S MARBLES

Once upon a time there was a little girl beaver named Margaret Flat Tail, who was a sister to Toodle and Noodle Flat Tail, the boy beavers. Margaret was a jolly little beaver girl—rather a tomboy, to tell you the truth, and she was often called "Maggie," which name she liked better than Margaret.

One day when Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods he saw Maggie Flat Tail crying.

"What's the matter, Maggie?" asked the bunny gentleman, twinkling his pink nose, for he was very fond of the little girl beaver.

"Oh, I'm not at all happy!" sobbed Maggie, and when she went to wipe away her tears on her handkerchief of white birch bark the bunny uncle heard a queer, clattering sound.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the bunny gentleman, jumping quickly around. "What's that? A rattlesnake?"

"Oh, no," answered Maggie, "that was just my marbles rattling in the bag," and she held up a little bark bag which rattled and clattered, for it had in it miggles, agates, glassies, brownies, Scotchies and other kinds of marble shooters.

"Your marbles, Maggie?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily in surprise. "I didn't know girls played marbles."

"That's the trouble," went on the beaver girl, wiping away more tears which came into her eyes. "I guess I'm the only girl in Woodland that knows how to play marbles. My brothers taught me, and I can shoot pretty good—for a girl. But none of the other girl animals like marbles, they didn't learn how to shoot, and none of them will play marble games with me. That's why I was crying."

"Oh, ho!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose in a jolly fashion. "Then why don't you play marbles with the boy animals?"

"Because," answered Maggie, "the boys won't play with me. They say I can't play good enough for them, though Toodle and Noodle will let me shoot with them when the other boys aren't around. Oh, dear!" and Maggie sadly sighed.

Uncle Wiggily felt sorry for the little beaver girl.

"It is too bad," said the bunny gentleman. "The girls can't play with you and the boys won't—at least, play the marble game."

"And I just love to play," said Maggie. "I like marbles."

"How would you like to play with me?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "What—play tag?" asked Maggie, swinging the bark bag.

"No—play marbles," chuckled the bunny uncle. "I used to be a good marble player, when I was a young rabbit. I don't suppose, now, though, that I am as good as you, Maggie. But, if you like, we'll have a little game."

"Oh, joy!" cried the beaver girl. "Come on! I'll give you first shot, Uncle Wiggily, 'cause maybe I am a little better shooter than you, since I've been practicing and you haven't. I don't care, now, if the boys won't let me play with them and if the girls stick up their noses at me!" laughed Maggie. She drew a ring on the ground beneath a green-wood tree, using her broad, flat tail to make it. Then she gave Uncle Wiggily a few of her marbles and, taking some herself, the game began.

Ten marbles were put in the middle of the ring, and then Uncle Wiggily and Maggie took turns trying to knock them out with their shooters.

All of a sudden, when Uncle Wiggily was about going to win—for he played the game better than he thought he could—all of a sudden, along came the Fuzzy Fox. He sneaked through the trees and under the bushes until he was close to the marble ring. And the Fox was just going to leap out and nibble the bunny's ears when, all of a sudden, Maggie saw the bad chap.

"Ah, you would get Uncle Wiggily, would you?" cried the beaver girl. Then she swept her broad, flat tail across the ring, knocking the marbles from it, kerslam-bang, into the face of the Fox.

"Ping! Pang! Pong!" went the marbles, hitting the Fox on the nose!

"Oh, wow!" howled the bad chap. "It must be raining hail! Oh, I must run home and get a wet blanket!"

"You'd better run!" cried Maggie, laughing. Then she put more marbles in the ring and the game went on. Maggie won, for she was a better player than Uncle Wiggily, who hadn't shot an agate in years. But the bunny gentleman only twinkled his pink nose and laughed.

"I had a lovely time playing with you," said Maggie. "Thank you, and the bunny gentleman said he had had a fine adventure. And if the rubber ball doesn't splash water on the umbrella and get its feet all wet, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Sammie's skates."

SOURCES OF ELECTROMOTIVE FORCE

In the preceding article we described the principle involved in one of two methods of producing electricity, i. e., in "static" or "frictional" electricity. The other method is known as "batteries," or, in other words, "chemical action." When two plates of different substances, such as two metals or a metal and a carbon, are placed in a water solution of certain acids or salts there is found to be a difference of potential between them. If the exposed portions of the plates, called the electrodes, are connected by a conductor, current will flow. The following list contains the names of the substances which are used as battery electrodes. The order of arrangement is such that when any two are taken current will flow through the wire from the one appearing higher in the list to the one farther down:

Carbon, mercury, copper, iron, lead, cadmium, tin, zinc, magnesium.

The salt and acid solutions used are conductors of electric-

45 Million Tons Of Water In One Shower
LONDON, April 30.—During one of London's recent rainy days, which was a little more rainy than the average, nearly 45,000,000 tons of rain fell between 8 o'clock at night and noon of the following day. The exact figure was 44,755,824 tons. Rain gauges at the official weather bureau registered a total fall of one inch, and it was estimated that every acre of land in the city was damped by 101 tons of rain.

GLENDALE TAKES SUNDAY CONTEST

Zelzahs Lose to Locals by 4 to 3 Score After Grabbing Lead

Glendale made it three straight wins in the Valley league pennant race by taking Zelzah's measure in the score of 4 to 3, in a hard-fought game, witnessed by a record crowd, that was played Sunday afternoon at the home ball grounds at Park and San Fernando.

The Glendale boys were overconfident at first, Zelzah being the star team in the second division. In two bad defeats against them. The result was that Zelzahs took all they ever got before manager Heider's men ever came to their truce, scoring one in the first and two in the third. Then, realizing that the enemy had come to town loaded for bear, Glendale grabbed two in the fourth and one in the fifth, tying the score. The final tally for the home team came in the seventh. "Slim" Harris, hurling for Glendale, was the shining star of the game, allowing the visitors but one hit and striking out ten. He also made a fine running catch out in the central gardens.

Injuries somewhat marred the game, Wilson at short, and Reid second, neither being able to play the contest.

Substitutes Beaten By Glendale Guards

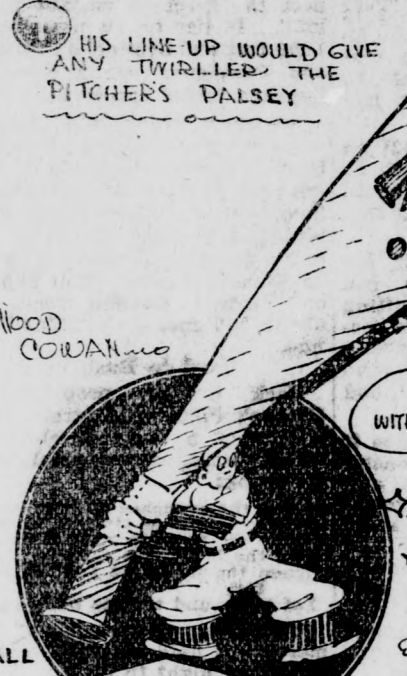

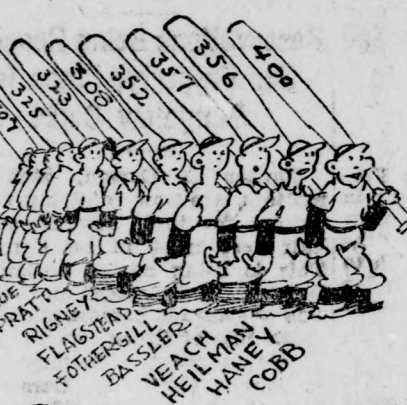

The Association All-Stars substituted for the Valve-in-Heads, forfeited the game on non-appearance.

A good game was played by the Glendale team, who outclassed the visiting team from the start. The score was 9 to 1. A treat was in store for the local fans, when Westman started the game with a home run, followed in the next inning by Steward McMan. West, Aggerson and Char. Wendt twisted the ball for Glendale with Becon behind the plate.

Door Ball Players Start on Schedule

Indoor Baseball season is in swing at the Wilson Avenue gym. The A-8 I class carried the intramural championship week when they defeated the III class in a 6-1 game that was the most exciting of the season. Miss Ethel Chase, class teacher, is very proud of the boys' team and claims that they will win the honor. Members of the team are Allen Lovell, Lester Tronster, Gerald Dell, Harry Wick, Jack Bennett, Lorence, Spencer Belline, Frank Stone and Bruce Harshbar.

Football's single in the night, Fothergill, broke up a "breathers" on that trip, no soft spot where indifferent pitching will get by. A slip anywhere along

Every sport doer has some sort of a weakness for prophecy, whether it's picking the next heavyweight champion or naming the winner of the derby. Now we're going to make a stab at this "I told you so stuff," it's gotten the best of us and demands an audience, so—

Don't tell anyone, but we've got a hunch that Detroit is going to win the American League pennant this year. Cobb may be an impulsive, temperamental baby but that hasn't kept him from gathering together an aggregation of ball players who can thump the old apple like no other team in years. Not that alone, but it's a well balanced team. It stood second in the fielding column last year and batted for a grand total of .305. Cobb has instilled into his players a fine fighting spirit as well, and if he can get some decent pitching—only a little better than the average—he'll cop the bunting.

Imagine a pitcher facing a line-up like this: Cobb, .400; Veach, .357; Heilmann, .356; Haney, .352;

Flanagan, .308; Fothergill, .322; then Blue, Del Pratt, and Bassler all .300 hitters or better! It would take a stout-hearted pitcher to pass any of them and try his luck with the next slugger to free him.

Cobb believes strongly in an offensive team, a bunch with a punch in their hats. Let the other clubs hang up the fielding records—he is more satisfied with the nine that can slug runs across the plate. And in this his present bunch must give him a lot of satisfaction.

Should Cobb win the pennant in the fall, it will be by clubbing all opposition to death with his formidable line-up of willow wielders.

It is because the spirit of a rule in sports is acknowledged by amateurs and not always a strict adherence to the letter that places collegiate and amateur competition on a different plane from that of professionalism. A fine example of this has just occurred at Stanford University.

Eddie Sudden, a star sprinter, who is rated as capable of winning first in both the 100 and 200 dashes against any of the best of California's sprinters, remained out of the dual meet with the latter university because his return to college was almost coincident with the date set for the track meet.

Sudden, according to the letter of the law was eligible to run. He had left college temporarily to straighten out the estate of his late father. He was up in all of his studies. He had only to register and don his spiked track shoes.

When a point, or even half a point, often determines the winning of a track meet (it was 65 1/2 all last year) Sudden's ten points for two firsts is considerable of a sacrifice, but just because it might be implied that he returned to college simply to help out his team mates, he refrained from competing. Incidents of this character are worth chronicling. It is a fine thing and school lads should read of them.

A mighty lot of good white paper and valuable space is being lost to the sports pages of the country in detailing what Dempsey is and is not going to do. In view of the fact that nobody knows anything about it, and Dempsey and his manager, Kearns, will say nothing definite even if they know anything definite, it looks to be a huge nation-wide scheme for keeping Dempsey before the public and the sports editors have taken the bait, sinker and hook. In the northwest recently a post of the American Legion called to mind the fact that Dempsey's fight record during the great war was obtained at the expense of a few fellows he is alleged to have helped weld into a ship. He was whitewashed in San Francisco to slacken the pace, but no brush has been able to wipe out the fact that Dempsey was not on hand to answer "present" when the roll was called in France, just before the manhood of America went over the top.

Did you ever ponder over what happened in baseball in the days gone by? We are a nation which primarily lives in the present and the doings of other days do not always get time for consideration. It is done and past and forgotten. Yet, if you look over the all-record books and refresh your memory many things will come to light that are of interest to the present-day fan.

For instance, in 1914 Clark Griffith of the Washington Americans was asked what he thought was the greatest of all time ball teams. He came back with this line-up which brings up many thoughts of the days gone by: Charles Comiskey, St. Louis Browns, first base; Eddie Collins, Athletics, second base; Herman Long, Boston, short; Jimmy Collins, Boston, third; Bill Lange, Boston, left field; Tris Speaker, Boston, center; Ty Cobb, Detroit, right field; "Buck" Ewing, New York, pitcher; Cy Young, Cleveland, pitcher; Christy Mathewson, New York, pitcher; Walter Johnson, Washington, pitcher. Comes pretty near being the same list as most fans would name today.

Do you recall that in 1914 after the major league season the American and National leagues organized two teams for a tour across the country and to Hawaii? The tour was a great success, and of the thirty-two games played the Americans won sixteen to the Nationals fourteen, and there were two extra inning games.

Do you recall that in 1914 in professional leagues there were ninety-one extra inning games? Some of the outstanding ones were: July 17, New York, N. L., defeated Pittsburgh 3 to 1 in twenty-one innings. Marquard, York, and Adams, Pittsburgh, pitching. The longest extra inning game was twenty-three frames in the Kansas State league. Hutchinson defeating Great Bend 4 to 2, and the Eastern association also recorded a twenty-three-inning contest when Hartford beat New Haven 2 to 1. In the Pacific Coast league Oakland and Venice went twenty innings, the former winning 4 to 2. Alachuk pitching for Oakland and Klepper for Venice.

Do you remember that Bunny Brief of the Kansas City American association team made a new record for the association by hitting safely in thirty consecutive games, making forty hits, scoring twenty-five runs and batting for three fifty games .377?

These were the days that our old friend "Matty" was the idol of the kids. Here is a comment on his pitching made in those days that will interest even today's generation:

"A unique feature to Mathewson's pitching is that he has changed his style in many ways and nobody appears to notice it. This season he has given more bases on balls and has hit more batters than in any previous season. He has dropped his old system of "control" first, last and all the time, and as a result thereof the boys are guessing. Instead of putting the ball over the plate every time he is putting more stuff on the ball and the occasional bursts of wildness only accentuate his control when he needs it."

So much for that. It is interesting old-time stuff and must bring many recollections to the fans of those days.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

PLAYERS WILL REPEAT 'Fun Revue' Thursday

NEW YORK, April 30.—One factor that may seriously deter the New York Yankees in their dash toward another pennant in the American League is the rather generous number of games they must play beyond the friendly atmosphere of their new stadium during the early weeks of the season. In all, first forty games are scheduled for twenty-nine of their alien fields and many of them will be played in the west, from which the Yankees are pleased to look for the only real competition in the field.

They will begin their first tour of that region on May 6 and before their return will have played upward of sixteen ball games with the Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox, St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians, generally rated, in the order named, as the principal contenders for the pennant. Many games can happen to a ball club meeting such opposition in day-to-day competition over a stretch of several weeks.

The Yankees, for example, might depart on the trip in possession of first place, but in order to hold it they would have to knock off the western clubs in order. No "breathers" on that trip, no soft spot where indifferent pitching will get by. A slip anywhere along the lead, since the other eastern route would cost the Yanks clubs, also on tour, do not figure to give much trouble to the teams that do not happen to be playing against the Yanks at the moment in question. In other words, if the Yankees are losing a series to the Tigers, the Indians, Browns and White Sox will probably be fattening at the expense of Philadelphia, Washington and Boston.

The Athletics may or may not prove the exception to this statement. They are a smoother, more dangerous team than Connie Mack has mustered during recent years but they have yet to prove that they are a good road club. They seem to lack the consistency in pitching that usually carries an outfit over the rough spots away from home.

Things equal to the same thing are equal to each other, however, and if the west can manhandle the remaining eastern teams, the Yankees can be reckoned to have no chance. They lost thirteen out of twenty-one ball games to the Red Sox last year, but will hardly repeat this asinine performance in 1923. They may also count upon winning the majority of games from the Senators, but the Athletics are another matter.

During recent years the Yankees have beaten the Mack entry at least eighty per cent of the time, but it is highly improbable that they will enjoy a similar degree of success this season.

TAGGING ALL BASES

A victory a day keeps the Sox away, says the Indian pitchers. George Uhle took a fall out of the saddened White Sox, 8 to 3, before a crowd of 35,000 at Comiskey park, and the Gleason entry settled itself more comfortably in the cellar.

A young man by the name of Bishop finally turned back the Giants in the ninth with the tying and winning runs on the bases, and the Phillies got the better of a 9-to-8 go-as-you-please. Bishop succeeded where such illustrious performers as Meadows, J. B. Fennell and $65,000 Jack Bentley failed.

Tickets to Dempsey-Gibbons Battle Offered Before Fighters Sign Up

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 30.—Although articles have not yet been signed for the 15-round bout at Shelby on July 4 between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, tickets for the contest were on sale today and Montana newspapers carried advertisements offering the entrance pasteboards to the public. Reserved ringside seats are advertised at $50 each, reserved seats back of the ringside at $40 each and second parquet seats at $25 each. General admission for unreserved seats in the bleachers will be sold at $10 each.

The new arena to be built at Shelby for the event will accommodate approximately 40,000 persons.

READY FOR TROUT

Emil O. Kiefer of 511 East Wilson avenue and W. H. Crane of Los Angeles are now at Chipwood lodge on the shore of Big Bear Lake laying out their tackle and getting ready for the opening of the trout season tomorrow. They are annoying a few rabbits, also. Mr. Kiefer will return about Thursday. He is a member of the firm of Kiefer & Eyerick.

BUDGET BATTLE NEARING FINISH

Motor Carriers Waging Bitter Fight to Block Tax On Gasoline Sale

SACRAMENTO, April 30.—Confidence is expressed this morning in both the assembly and senate that the budget battle will be brought to a close in the California legislature this week, and such issues as re-apportionment and motor vehicle regulations be again considered. Adjourning by May 20 now seems possible.

The gasoline tax of two cents per gallon is being bitterly opposed to kill the senate bill in the assembly. If it is defeated the Arbuttle bill calling for seven per cent of the gross earnings of the motor carriers will be pressed. According to Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, some means must be taken to make the heavy buses and transport trucks bear the burden of highway maintenance, for even the railroads are planning to place $800,000 worth of motorized equipment into service to compete with the motor carriers.

In the senate no great effort will be made by the administration to balk the budget as amended by the assembly, it being planned to pass the appropriation up to the governor for final revision.

COURTHOUSE BURNS

LINCOLN, Neb., April 30.—According to a report at the governor's office this morning, the court house at North Platte, Lincoln county, burned last night. An investigation of county records was to have been started this morning.

EAGLE ROCK

SPEEDERS TOO BUSY TO APPEAR

Three Days in Jail Awarded Accused Who Failed to Show Up on Time

Because Joe Otis of San Fernando was too busy to appear in the Eagle Rock court, after "agreeing in writing so to do," he is to have three days in which to think it over, according to Judge Cruzan, who pronounced sentence on Otis, a Spaniard, in court Saturday.

Joe Otis was wanted for exceeding the fifteen-mile-an-hour speed limit, and was booked to appear on March 3. When he finally appeared in court, his reason for failure to appear at the specified time was that he had been too busy.

Judge Cruzan fined him $20 on the speeding charge, to which he pleaded guilty, and also sentenced him to three days in the county jail.

"If motorists only knew it, the arrangement whereby they can sign the ticket, without putting up bail, was made for their special convenience, and I haven't any patience with the man who agrees to be present for trial, and then doesn't appear."

"This law was enacted when it was the habit of country constables to stop the motorist, and cause him to detain perhaps as far as thirty or forty miles to come before the magistrate and pay a fine. Under this law the motorist may sign the ticket stating that he will appear at a certain time, and can then resume his journey, without the time wasted in making the detour."

"A motorist should realize that, when he fails to appear, after agreeing in writing so to do, he is committing a misdemeanor."

Collects Tickets

"I've heard of all kinds of curio collectors," said Judge Cruzan in court Saturday morning, addressing Ralph Benton, who was answering to a charge of driving faster than fifteen miles an hour in the fifteen-mile limit. "But I have never before met anyone making a collection of speed cop tickets."

It was only after all other speeding cases had been tried, and the judge had asked if there were any more speeding cases to come before the court, that Benton rose and told the judge he thought he had a case for him to try.

Benton reached into his pocket, and drew forth a yellow slip of paper. The judge examined it, and returning it, said: "That belongs to Judge Lowe's court. I can't try your case."

Not to be outdone, apparently, the defendant reached into another pocket, and drew forth an Eagle Rock ticket.

"What are you doing, making a collection of those?" asked the judge. "$15 or fifteen days."

Balk at "Marcello"

Objecting to the name "Marcello," which residents of Mariposa street learned was to be imposed upon their thoroughfare, following annexation, Mrs. Clara S. Ellis, a West Mariposa resident, successfully circulated a petition protesting against the proposed name of the street, and substituting two more preferable names.

The petition, which was signed by every property owner on Mariposa, specifies that the residents would prefer the name of "Marquita," Spanish for lady bird, or "Maravilla," which means admiration. Mrs. Ellis said that Marcello carried too much suggestion of a beauty parlor to be acceptable.

The petition was presented to O. J. Root, chairman of the renaming committee of Eagle Rock. All similar protests must be in the hands of the committee by Tuesday, Mrs. Ellis stated.

Glee Club Recital

The recital given by the Occidental Glee club at the women's clubhouse Friday night for the benefit of the scholarship fund of the Twentieth Century club was attended by more than 100 club patrons.

Members of the girls' glee club presented an attractive appearance in their white dresses. The stage was beautifully decorated with shrubs and flowers.

Mrs. Harold Ide Cruzan was in charge of the program. She was assisted in receiving at the door by Mrs. Archibald Fiske, Mrs. Sherrill B. Osborn, Mrs. C. W. Young and Miss Ruth Shearin, instructor of English in the Glendale High school.

During the intermission, Mrs. M. T. Lee, president of the Twentieth Century club, addressed the audience and told of the plan of the club to give to the worthy Eagle Rock girl the chance to attend Occidental college. This aim took on more extensive proportions as the enthusiasm was felt, and it was decided to give a series of entertainments, the proceeds of which would be used in swelling this scholarship fund.

Mrs. Lee characterized the plan to give a scholarship as the biggest undertaking of the club. She welcomed the high school girls in the audience, and told them that the scholarship was for them, and graciously expressed appreciation for the services rendered by the Occidental Girls' Glee club.

The program rendered by the glee club was a most varied and delightful one. The first group of songs included such favorites as "Nature's Resurrection," "Early in the Morning," "Indian Cradle Song" and "Mariquita."

Florence Stevenson then gave a clever rendition of "Patsy," by Kate Douglas Wiggin. She was enthusiastically encored, and

MONTROSE

OPEN NEW TRACT IN LA CANYADA

Reservations Being Received For Property; Plans for Bungalow Court

Turner & Carson, Montrose realtors, are now receiving reservations for their new six and a half acre tract in La Canyada. This is a beautiful tract, situated on the south side of Green street, and is all view property. Neither Frank B. Turner nor G. W. Carson expect the tract to remain unsold long. It lies at an elevation of 2000 feet and overlooks Flintridge and Pasadena. On a clear day Catalina Island can be seen.

Architect Tracy-Judd of Hollywood is now preparing plans for a bungalow court to be built on a triangular piece of property in Sparr Heights just acquired by Mrs. Helen Atkins Valley. This has a frontage of about 200 feet on Escuela avenue, about 250 feet on Verdugo Canyon road, and about 200 feet on Highland avenue.

Tend to Business

Jack Craven, proprietor of George's Place in Montrose, is the author of a "poem" which has many verses, among which is the following:

"When the grouches start to grouch,
And the snobs start to snob;
When the naggers start to nag,
And the jabbers set to jabbering,
Let them, and tend to business."

The Montrose Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting tomorrow night to discuss the establishment of a motion picture theatre in Montrose. Two plans were considered last Tuesday night at a meeting of the directors. One of these is for a theatre to be owned and managed entirely as an individual enterprise, and the other for the formation of a stock company in which the Chamber of Commerce might take stock in exchange for its lot.

A new property owner in Montrose is Walter S. England, police lieutenant of Los Angeles.

BIRTHDAY EVENTS GIVEN BY LODGE

Large Celebration Is Held on

The order found itself today, in the 104th year of its existence, in a position where its membership was over 2,500,000 persons and its annual expenditures for charitable and benevolent purposes in excess of $7,000,000. The order itself being recognized as one of the great moral and social forces in the United States and "the cradle of good citizenship," inculcating in men "the brotherhood of man and fatherhood of God."

Close to Church

"The Odd Fellows are close to the church in their lines of work, but they are not trying to usurp the sphere of the church," stated Mr. Longly. "The work of the church is spiritual, while ours is moral."

"Looking backward through the flickering shadows of 104 years ago, we see the inception of an order founded to strive for all

then sang a southern dialect song.

The second group of songs presented by the glee club were selections from the Mikado, which was presented by the Occidental Junior class this year. The girls were attired in bright hued kimonos, and wore pompons in their hair. These numbers also proved popular with the audience.

New Election System

With the membership and reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce, a new system of electing directors has been adopted. The system, it is believed, eliminates all chances of unfairness in the choice of directors, and gives each member a fair chance at the office.

When the election time comes, a list of the entire paid-up membership of the Chamber of Commerce will be sent to each member. He will be instructed to vote for twelve candidates. These votes will be counted, and the twenty-four receiving the highest number of votes will find their names placed on the final ballot.

The list of twenty-four names will then be sent to each member, with the instructions to vote for twelve. The twelve receiving the highest votes will form the board of directors. The six receiving the highest vote will serve a two-year term of office, and the remaining six will serve for one year.

George Sarby of 201 South Satsuma avenue was the victim of a traffic accident Saturday noon, when he collided with another machine, while driving onto the street from his driveway.

Sarby reports that he did not get the name of the other driver, who, he alleges, was driving south on Satsuma avenue and failed to signal when making the turn. He reported the number of the machine as 504171.

The rear bumper was bent and the rear end of the body of Sarby's machine crushed. Sarby was uninjured.

TUJUNGA

PLAN TO EXTEND TRANSPORTATION

Road Problems Discussed
By Valley Towns as Need
For Relief Grows

The Verdugo Hills Transportation company is seriously contemplating an extension of their activities to include Pasadena in the territory covered by their busses.

Mr. Richardson, president, and Mr. Campbell, vice president, are working out the plans and are lending attentive ears to anything the traveling public cares to say about the project.

This would afford a much easier and more convenient mode of travel between this valley and the Crown City and would eliminate the present tedious, tiresome, roundabout which is not in the least attractive.

Appropos of transportation problems it is interesting to note that the plans for relieving the present traffic strain on the state highway through the Tujuanga are progressing and taking a concrete form. It is proposed to do this by extending the Foothill boulevard from Lamanda Park on through to San Fernando and thence to connect with other main traffic arteries at all points north and west to the beaches.

The Monte Vista Valley Improvement League sent representatives to the Foothill Boulevard Association meeting held at Pasadena, Lloyd Foster, G. W. Butts and Clarence M. Buck were the representatives.

Plans for widening the present Foothill Boulevard to 100 feet and continuing an extension were outlined. It is the purpose of the league to interest residents of La Canada, La Crescenta, Tujuanga and Sunland in a campaign to have this boulevard routed through this valley and the towns named.

Frank Wheeler of Claremont offered a resolution to the effect that no plans for a route between Pasadena and Santa Monica be approved until the engineers employed by the Foothill Boulevard Association had gone over the territory and reported on their findings.

One plan is to run the proposed road through Eagle Rock and Glendale, but this would conflict with the main object of the plan, which is to avoid communities already much traversed and the subsequent heavy traffic.

Another route suggested was by way of Tujuanga, Sunland, through Hansen Heights to Roscoe, Lankershim and on to Hollywood, but this would add several miles to the one proposed through Eagle Rock and Glendale.

Another plan laid before the meeting was to continue along the present state highway to San Fernando, widening it to 100 feet, then connecting with Sherman Way to Van Nuys and Santa Monica. This route would offer the highest altitude and scenery, excelled by none in Southern California. It would avoid the more congested districts of the larger towns and would offer an easy connection of this valley with the coast and interior highways.

The meeting was presided over by J. B. Gill. Another will be held in the near future, at which various angles and plans will have been discussed and prepared for consideration.

Want Fire Plugs

The Verdugo Hills Business Association is planning a campaign to have fire plugs installed along the main streets of Tujuanga. At present there are none and the fire protection afforded is inadequate, to say the least.

J. H. Kautz, president of the association, argues that the cost of tapping the mains already laid would be negligible compared to the benefit in case of a serious fire in the business district. This argument also applies well to the residence section.

E. B. Lancaster of Sunland has presented two lots to the Sunland Baptist church for a new house of worship. These lots are located in the Lancaster tract about 100 feet off the state highway and one block east of First street, land.

This location has many advantages over the present site of the Monte Vista park. George E. Huse has purchased the where the church now stands.

Reverend W. E. Smith has had of the construction work be started by the middle of May. Old building will be razed and the lumber used to build parsonage on a lot to be purchased next to the ones given by Mr. Lancaster for the new church, according to present plans.

Plans for the new building be drawn at once. Both the teard and the congregation have increased greatly since the Reverend Smith took charge of church a short time ago.

The morning subject Sunday was, "Eternal life and how to attain it."

Reverend and Mrs. W. E. Smith recently enjoyed a visit from two sons, Reverend Jesse S. Oxenard and Guy Smith of Redlands and their daughter, Raymond Van Derlander.

The pastor has purchased lots in new 'Gem of Tujuanga' tract Michigan Avenue, Tujuanga.

The Tujuanga Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. H. Mills, 213 North San Y street, last week for a study nature, principally wild flowers. The primary pupils, under tutelage of Mrs. Johnson, tea in the grammar school, attended and made the program most interesting with their work in study.

The next meeting will be regular business meeting of month and will be held at Community church on Thursday, May 10.
